School Blast Toll Now 455; Court Starts Inquiry

SAFETY HEADS TO DISCUSS PROGRAM

Motry Urges Tickets for Pedestrians Here Who Endanger Traffic

Slap a $10 fine on the jaywalker! He's as big a menace to traffic safety as the boulevard jumper. So he should be given traffic tickets just as motorists who violate the traffic laws are handed citations by officers.

V. L. Motry, prominent local merchant and member of the new traffic safety commission, has definite ideas on the subject of jaywalking and other violations of traffic rules, and it was indicated today that these ideas will be discussed as part of the comprehensive program of safety to be formulated by the commission.

Gives Example

Pedestrians should use the traffic lanes in the downtown business section provided for them, Motry said. If they don't—they should be given traffic tickets. He cited an instance of a woman he saw jaywalking. She crossed in the middle of the block, was nearly hit by a car. Then she came back across the street and was nearly hit again!

Motry also thinks a campaign should be launched against commercial trucks and cars which drive on the wrong side of the street. He told of one bakery truck he saw, driving for six blocks on the wrong side of the street, while the driver was looking for customers and not for traffic hazards.

Praises School

Hand signalling in driving is another important phase of the problem with which the commission must deal, Motry indicated. He expressed hearty approval of the plan broached by Matt Lujan, unofficial mayor of Delhi, yesterday, to hold traffic safety schools for Mexicans of the county.

Police Commissioner Plummer Bruns yesterday told The Journal that he is in accord with the plans for the traffic safety school, and was helping to work out details of the plan for the free instruction of Mexicans in traffic matters. Motry said he thinks it would be a good idea to hold these schools for persons other than Mexicans, although many of the accidents have Mexicans figuring in them.

Other Comments

Other members of the newly appointed safety commission today also expressed approval of the plans for the Mexican school on safety in driving, which the Santa Ana police department and California Highway patrol will aid.

Charles Swanner said the traffic school would fill a need, and that he thinks it is a fine thing. Some of the Mexican drivers need instruction, he said, and the plan may solve a lot of the trouble.

A. A. Hardy said anything that will promote safety is a good thing, and that he approves of the traffic school planned. A similar sentiment was expressed by Frank A. Henderson. The Rev. O. Scott McFarland said he wanted the matter to be taken up by the safety commission before he commented on the plan.

Relatives Seek Dead In School Blast

Sorrowing relatives in long lines scanned the broken bodies of hundreds of children in morgues of several communities near New London, Texas, after the $1,000,000 school there blew up seven minutes before they would have left the building. Nearly 500 children, ranging in age from 5 to 19 years, were among the victims. (Associated Press Photo)

HEWES RANCH TO BE SOLD

Subdivision of 300-Acre Property Will Follow Foreclosure

Legal machinery was put in motion today that will end the days of historic old Hewes ranch.

Foreclosure of the last 300 acres of the 1000-acre ranch was granted in superior court to the David Hewes Realty corporation. The foreclosure was to satisfy a $212,832.99 mortgage held by the realty company against the Hewes Ranch

KIDS STILL GET FREE TICKETS

The elephants and tigers and lions are on their way—but there is still time for Orange county youngsters to win tickets to see Monday's Al G. Barnes circus free.

The circus will be in Santa Ana Monday, and The Journal will give a free circus ticket, good for the main show and sideshow, for each new subscription to this newspaper.

Children may bring or mail the name of the person agreeing to take The Journal—no money is required from the subscriber in advance—to The Journal office, 117 East Fifth street. If they mail the subscriptions in, tickets will be held for them at the office.

Saddened Villages Bury Their Dead

NEW LONDON, Tex. (AP)—Mournful processions to the graves of the London community school disaster victims began on large scale measure today—shortly after sun up.

At Old London's tiny Baptist church plans for a mass service were abandoned and instead a continuous chain of services began.

In Overton, four miles from the school site, approximately 70 services were scheduled in private homes, churches and funeral homes.

C. W. Holmes of Overton Baptist church said pastors from many East Texas towns had volunteered to conduct services.

Ministers worked on virtual time table schedules to fill their multiple engagements. Buril permits were issued in wholesale quantities.

It was believed most of the blast victims would be interred during the day and that by sundown tomorrow the grim task would be completed.

Black crepe adorned doors of many business houses and the stricken village lay quiet.

HOME BUILDING TAKES SPURT

Home building is booming in Santa Ana.

Permits for construction of four new homes were issued yesterday by Building Inspector Harold Rasmussen.

Largest will be that of Leon H. Eckles, supervisor of the federal music project here, who plans a nine-room residence at 1020 Freeman street. John Terpstra will be contractor, and the home will be built at a cost of $6750.

M. Van Drimlen, 1417 South Main street, secured a permit for construction of a five-room home, at a cost of $3500. Jasper Farney will be contractor.

J. J. Williams was named contractor for the five-room residence of J. A. Grimshaw, at 1422 West Eighth street, to be built at a cost of $3000. Mrs. O. L. Perkins will build a five-room house at 1302 North Olive street, to cost $3500. William Ulm is contractor.

REBELS SMASH INTO MADRID

NAVALCARNERO, Spain. (AP)—Insurgent forces in the University City sector at Madrid's northwest corner were reported today to have smashed through the capital's defenses into nothern Madrid.

Word of crumpled resistance and a sudden thrust into the long besieged city was brought to this insurgent base by persons who said they witnessed the incursion.

SECURITY ACT IS UPHELD

NEW ORLEANS. (AP)—The United States fifth circuit court of appeals today upheld constitutionality of the social security act in affirming a lower court's findings that the act did not take private property for public use without just compensation. The opinion was unanimous among the three judges.

EXPERTS SAY GAS CAUSED TRAGEDY

Scene of Disaster in East Texas Still Under Martial Law

NEW LONDON, Tex. (AP)—Parents buried their children by the scores in the London hills today while military authorities met nearby and learned the explosion-shattered school house that killed 455 had not been constructed for gas steam radiation, the heating type used.

The casualty list, completed after a full night of labor over conflicting reports, showed 94 injured and two missing. The list, exhaustively as relief workers checked it, was still subject to revision.

Inquiry Under Way

Only a stones' throw away from the levelled structure, a military court of inquiry convened and heard Ross Maddox, contractor for the central unit of the building, say he "presumed" the change from a boiler heating system plant to gas steam radiation was for reasons of economy.

Captain Z. E. Coombes, judge advocate of the court, asked Maddox if original plans did not call for a boiler heating system. Maddox replied affirmatively and added:

"The change to gas steam radiation was on account of cost, I presume."

No Criminal Charges

Authorities digging for the cause of the tragedy continued their hearing as families of the dead children and school teachers filed into the small London church and heard simple ceremonies for their dead.

Seated in the courtroom was Stone Wells, Rusk county district attorney, but he said he "didn't

CHILD IS SLAIN BY NEIGHBOR

NEW YORK. (AP)—Within a few hours after the discovery of the body of a 9-year-old girl, stuffed in a blood-soaked burlap bag and badly mutilated, police today arrested Salvatore Ossido, a Brooklyn barber, father of two children, and charged him with the crime.

The victim, Erna Sporrer, a pretty blue-eyed blonde, was found by Kalman Yaskowitz, who saw the crimson-stained bag slumped on the front porch of a two-story brick house on Linden street, a short distance from the girl's home. She had been attacked and slashed repeatedly.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine announced police had obtained a "complete confession" from Ossido and had solved the crime within 90 minutes after the discovery of the body.

Suspicion fell upon the barber, who resides a few doors from the Sporrer home, when records revealed he had been arrested three months ago on a criminal assault charge.

Now, If It Weren't For That $300 Per Month Income

Justice Kenneth Morrison looked down from the bench today at J. W. George, 45, rancher, of 210 South Lime street, charged with being drunk.

"Drinking much?" he asked.

"A little bit every day."

"Do you work?"

"No. It's hard for me to get on any relief work. I have a little income."

"A little income? How much?"

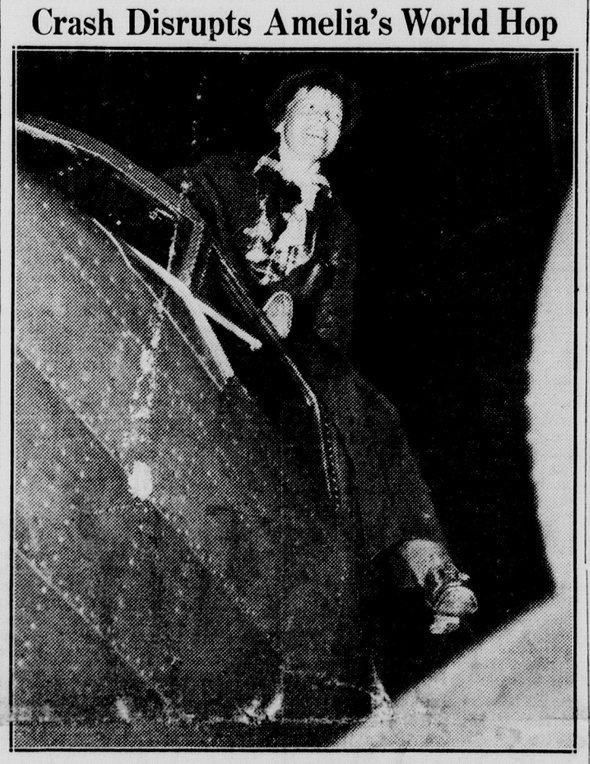

"Three hundred dollars."

"Did you say $300 a month?"

"Yes."

George today began a 30-day county jail sentence. He will be on probation for two years after that.

Crash Disrupts Amelia's World Hop

A tire blew out on Amelia Earhart's $80,000 airplane as she was preparing to take off this morning at Honolulu on the second lap of her world-girdling flight, resulting in minor damage to the plane which disrupted her flight. Above she is pictured climbing out of the cockpit of her machine. (Associated Press Photo.)

NEW PLAN ON INSURANCE

Remove politics from compensation insurance!

This advice was given to Orange county today by officials of the Industrial Accident Commission of California and the state compensation insurance fund.

It came as a result of interest shown by the board of supervisors in taking out state compensation insurance for county employes.

The Journal was informed by J. R. Cornwell, branch manager of the state compensation insurance fund at Los Angeles, that the only way to remove local politics from compensation insurance was for the county to take out the state insurance.

Consider Action

It was indicated by the state officials that Orange county now is considering taking out the state insurance because of the huge cost to the county from compensation to nurses who were stricken with polio at the Orange county hospital.

Cornwell said he has received inquiries from the county officials regarding the state insurance, and that Orange county now is compiling a list of employes with salaries and classifications so that the cost per year to the county for the insurance can be determined.

It is permissive for cities and counties to carry their own insurance as Orange county does, Cornwell said, but he said this is not justified. He pointed out the difficulties encountered by local communities in arriving at proper figures on compensation for injured employes when political pressure is brought to bear on the officials.

Polio Costs Heavy

Cornwell indicated that polio cases alone probably have cost Orange county as much as if it had been carrying state compensation insurance. He pointed out that the polio epidemic among nurses in Los Angeles county has cost the county more than $400,000. Orange county has not carried state compensation insurance since about 1931, he said.

An advantage of state insurance, Cornwell said, is that the cost per year is definitely limited. A county not insured through the state fund, he said, must pay for injuries of employes, and in the polio cases alone this figure is high.

GAS BLAST KILLS 3

NANTES, France. (AP)—Three persons were kliled and 30 others sent to hospitals today by gas escaping from a broken main.

START MAJOR WATER MOVE

Orange county's most intensive probe into its water problems will be launched Monday night.

The first major session of the water committee named by the board of supervisors to make an exhaustive study of the water problems of the county will be held at 7:30 Monday night in the courthouse.

Dian R. Gardner, Orange, chairman of the committee, announced today that the first phase of the water problem to be tackled is waste of storm water.

Thompson To Appear

The discussion Monday night will not concern alleged waste of water by gun clubs, but only with waste during and after rainstorms. County Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson will appear before the committee to give facts and figures regarding water waste.

The committee plans to take up one phase of the water problem at a time, Gardner said today. Monday's session will be devoted to detailed outlining of future work of the committee, it was announced.

Expert Services

Other members of the committee are Secretary Walter Humphreys, Fullerton; A. J. McFadden, Santa Ana; J. J. Dwyer, Anaheim; W. W. Hoy, Santa Ana; Charles Smith, Tustin, and Wayne Holt, Garden Grove.

The commission has been granted the services of expert water engineers and attorneys to aid the group in its study. The commission was named after farm bureau officials and directors of the Orange County Water district had demanded repeal of the county "gun club" ordinance in furtherance of plans for water conservation.

WAGE INCREASE

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Announcement of wage increases by additional mills today brought the number of Carolina textile workers who will get fatter pay envelopes by April 1 to approximately 90,000.

FLIER AND 2 COMPANIONS UNINJURED

Tire Blows Out, Wrecks Craft as Trio Begin Takeoff for Island

HONOLULU. (AP)—Amelia Earhart's "flying laboratory" crashed today as she was taking off for Howland island on the second leg of her globe-girdling trip, but her quick action saved the lives of herself and two men companions.

She quickly cut the ignition switches of her two powerful motors and prevented the plane from catching fire and exploding more than 800 gallons of gasoline in the tanks.

The woman flier, who had crossed both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans during her exciting career, again faced death and danger calmly.

JOURNAL-KVOE SCORES "BEAT" ON ACCIDENT

The Journal-KVOE radio news service scored a 15-minute "beat" this morning on the news of Miss Earhart's crash at Honolulu. The flash on the accident, and later the information that Miss Earhart and her crew were safe, were a good 15 minutes ahead of other radio news flashes on the incident.

She came through the thrilling experience with only a whitened face to reveal her feelings and disappointment over the wrecking of her eight-ton craft.

Something must have gone wrong," she exclaimed to army officers who had hurried, with speeding ambulances, to the scene at Luke field.

She then inspected the plane and announced, "A tire blew out."

"No one was hurt; only our spirits are bruised," she said later. "We were going about 50 miles an hour when the right tire blew out. I cut the switches. This means postponement of my world trip, but not cancellation."

Miss Earhart and her entire party booked passage on the liner Malolo, sailing at noon today for Los Angels.

Army officers who viewed the spectacular crash agreed Miss

OIL BILLS UP IN SENATE

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—The senate has as a special order of business for Monday two oil bills, both relating to the state's oil pool at Huntington Beach.

One, introduced by Senator Olson, Los Angeles, calls for a royalty of 30 per cent of oil produced by any company leasing the drilling rights from the state, and the other, by Senators Rich, Marysville, and Swing, San Bernardino, specifies a 16⅔ per cent royalty.

In commenting today on the two bills, Senator Westover, Santa Ana, in whose district the Huntington Beach field is located, said:

"The Rich-Swing bill is an attempt to wrap up Huntington Beach in blue ribbons and hand it to the Standard Oil Company. Under the bill only the Standard Oil Company or a subsidiary can bid on the state's oil pool.

"On the other hand, the Olson measure is an attempt to preclude the Standard from bidding for the oil rights because it says no trespasser on the state's oil pool may bid for drilling rights.

"It is well known the Standard has trespassed on the state's rights in the Huntington Beach field."

Planes Take City June 20

Santa Ana's air show at the Martin airport June 20 promises to be the greatest event of its kind ever staged in the western states.

More than 22 of the biggest manufacturers of airplanes in the nation will show about a half million dollars worth of new model airplanes. Hundreds of pilots from California, Arizona, Utah and Arizona will be here to see the new ships and take part in the big show.

Dale Deckert, chairman of the committee on aviation for the chamber of commerce, returned to Santa Ana today after spending yesterday at the big Pan-Pacific air and boat show at Los Angeles, where he made first definite arrangements for the airplane display and participation of manufacturers and pilots in the Santa Ana show.

Three new ships recently purchased by the U. S. department of commerce will be on display here, including the sensational new Arrowbile, which has dominated the air news recently. Made by the Waterman Arrowplane corporation of Santa Monica, it is a combination automobile and airplane. It can be changed from an auto to a plane in three minutes, and is a distinct success and not an experiment, Deckert said.

The new Stearman-Hammond model "Y" all-metal sports plane, which sells for a low price, will be on display here. This plane has no fuselage and two tails. Novices can learn to solo in the plane in an hour or less, it was stated by Deckert. The new Arrow sport plane which uses a Ford V-8 engine also will be shown here.

Manufacturers are keenly interested in taking part in the show because of the number of pilots who will be here, it was explained by Deckert, who pointed out that the Los Angeles show which has been attracting national attention merely displays the planes. Here they will be flown and demonstrated for the pilots.

A big free barbecue will be arranged for the pilots of the western states, many of whom already have made arrangements to come here June 20. Monday the chamber of commerce will send out letters to the pilots, thanking them for the acceptance and inviting them to this city for the air show.

Wide publicity is expected to result from the show here. M. G. Hauser, circulation manager of Western Air, leading aviation magazine, has promised wholehearted cooperation, Deckert said. Hauser will ask all pilots to reserve the date and be in Santa Ana for the big free barbecue and air show.

CITRUS HEAD RESIGNS AT FULLERTON

Will Name Successor to George Crawford at Meeting Monday

A successor to George Crawford as manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange will be named at a meeting of the board of directors in Fullerton Monday, officials announced today.

Crawford resigned from his position as manager this week. No reason was given for the manager leaving the position, which he has occupied for the past five and one-half years. Crawford was named manager of the large exchange following death of Dale King, original manager, more than five years ago.

Crawford made no public announcement as to his plans.

100 STRIKERS ARE EVICTED

DETROIT. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Bernard McGrath, accompanied by 75 officers wearing bullet proof vests and armed with tear gas guns, marched to the gates of the Newton Packing Company plant here today and read a court order demanding that more than 100 sit-down strikers evacuate the premises.

What reply was made was drowned by shouts. The officers broke a hole in a large glass window and entered the main building, as others guarded the gates.

In a short time, a number of strikers emerged from the building to be herded in the street by the officers.

The company claims $170,000 worth of meat in the plant is spoiling because refrigeration was turned off by the strikers two weeks ago.

Representatives of 6,000 sit-down strikers defying court orders for their eviction from Chrysler automobile plants informed Gov. Frank Murphy today they were using "the only weapon we have" and warned that use of state troops to eject them would "lead to bloodshed and violence."

The statement came from leaders of United Automobile Workers of America local unions in eight Chrysler plants which striking workers have held since March 8 in an attempt to enforce demands for exclusive bargaining rights.

LEGION BALL IS HELD AT MESA

COSTA MESA.—The American Legion Birthday ball held recently in the Women's clubhouse was an outstanding success, with 60 members of the post and auxiliary at the pot-luck dinner preceeding the dance and more than 100 enjoying the festivities which were opened to the public after 9 p. m.

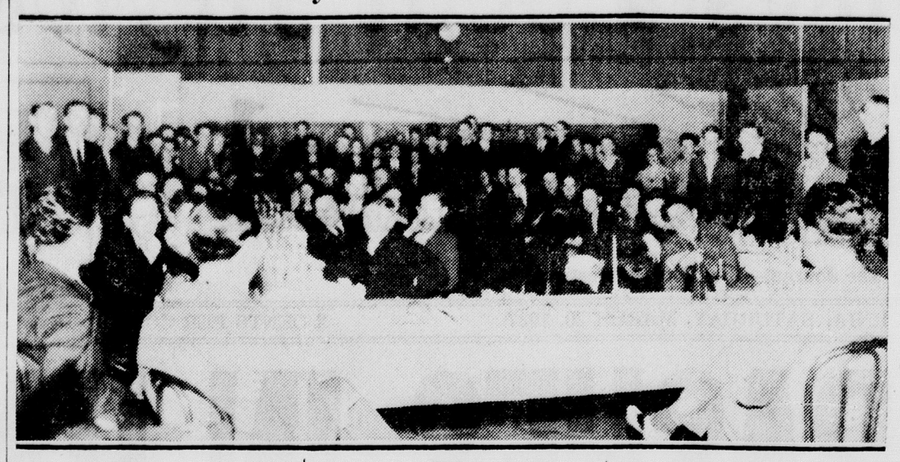

A brief business meeting was held and Past Commander John Wilcox gave a talk on the birth of the Legion in Paris, 18 years ago. Music was furnished by the WPA orchestra. The evening's entertainment was in charge of Leroy Anderson, Harold Grauel and George Grupe.

Party Honors Oliver Howton

MIDWAY CITY.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foley were hosts at a family dinner Thursday night entertaining in honor of Mrs. Foley's brother, Oliver Howton, who was observing his birthday.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Howton, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Beal, Miss Emmaetta Hart, Doris Jean and Neil Foley, Mrs. J. E. Nee and Frances and Donald Nee, Brea.

Carrier Boys Honored Guests At Dinner

Approximately 100 Journal carrier boys were guests last night at a dinner in the Green Cat cafe, honoring them for their loyalty and industry in The Journal organization. The dinner was given by The Journal and was attended by a number of department heads.

John Rotenberg of Anaheim and Warren Danielson of Santa Ana were given prizes for outstanding work.

Eugene Long, circulation manager of The Journal, acted as master of ceremonies. He expressed appreciation to the boys for their industry and loyalty.

Long introduced various heads of departments, who spoke briefly to the boys, also lauding them for their accomplishments and explaining how all departments work together.

Braden Finch, editor, was the main speaker. Others presented were T. R. Alvord, advertising manager; "Brick" Gaines, county editor; Paul Wright, sports editor; Roch Bradshaw, city editor; Dwight Holden, suburban circulation manager, and Parker Wilson and H. M. Chadwick of the circulation department.

Long, in his talk to the boys, told them that in 32 years of experience in the newspaper business he never had seen a finer or more energetic organization.

think there was a possibility of criminal law violations."

Maddox told the court that the London school's building committee, before deciding to install the gas steam system, visited several other schools using the heating devices.

Senator Joe Hill asked Maddox:

"Not a Dust Blast"

"If you didn't get a perfect mortar connection between the pieces of tile to convey the gas to the attic, the gas might escape, mightn't it?"

Maddox said "yes" and admitted it was possible that it might eventually pervade the entire wall.

Previously, Dr. E. P. Schouch, University of Texas chemistry professor, said in a pre-court statement the blast could not have occurred from gasoline vapor or dust blast.

"The blast blew too far for a dust explosion," he said. "If it had been caused by gasoline vapors, the victims would have been burned. The victims in the main didn't show scorching. It was just like they were shot to death."

No Mass Funeral

Meanwhile, flower-topped caskets moved in little groups through the community. Bright sunshine beat down on the caskets. Ministers, scores of them, went from one little oil field home to another with words of comfort.

A mass funeral plan was abandoned because of lack of space.

Meantime, relief workers had all but completed their job of sorting the battered humanity hauled from under tons of steel and brick where once stood the "richest country high school in the world."

Three Bodies Unclaimed

Only three bodies—all of young girls—lay unclaimed in a Henderson mortuary.

The state legislature, making its own committee inquiry into the disaster, held up action until Monday when the eight committeemen will meet in Henderson. The main purpose of that investigation was to arrive at means to prevent recurrence of such a calamity.

Elementary buildings in the $1,000,000 plant remained unscathed.

Resume School Monday

School officials indicated normal routine in the lower grades would be resumed Monday while the town itself and nearby Overton, alive with strangers and newspapermen from all parts of the nation, prepared to start the New week in old routine.

Major Gaston Howard, assistant attorney who convened the inquiry upon orders of Governor Allred, said martial law, declared soon after the blast, would not be lifted until the court of inquiry completed its findings. Military rule is needed to retain authority of the court.

LINER REX DAMAGED

NEW YORK. (AP)—High winds and flood tide drove the stern of the Italian liner Rex into her pier at West 48th street, damaging the ship and the pier, when the liner first attempted to sail yesterday. The ship later got away.

Ohio had its first million-dollar legislature in 1936. The 91st general assembly of the state cost taxpayers $1,313,928.

MORE ABOUT AMELIA

Earhart's prompt action prevented the plane from bursting into flames, although fire shot from one motor as it skidded to a stop.

Her companions, Fred J. Noonan and Capt. Harry Manning, also escaped injury. Neither appeared shaken.

The trio entered the plane at 8:10 a. m. (Santa Ana Time) for the hop to Howland island, a tiny spot 1532 miles to the southwest.

The motors roared and Miss Earhart "gunned" them to taxi to the far end of the concrete runway at the field. Then she turned, and the engines hummed as the craft gathered speed for the takeoff.

Wing Hits Ground

The plane was about half way down the runway when the right tire burst and the landing gear gave way on the left side of the ship.

Miss Earhart immediately realized the danger and quickly "gunned" the left motor in a daring attempt to level the heavy plane.

The craft, out of control, tipped dizzily and the left wing struck the ground. The ship swung around and crushed the landing gear on the left side and stripped off the wheel on the right side, coming to rest with the right wing on the runway. Both propellors were bent.

Mantz Checks Damage

Noonan and Manning returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Holmes. Paul Mantz, Miss Earhart's technical adviser, remained at the field to survey the damage. He had accompanied her on the record-breaking hop from Oakland, but had left the plane here.

Mantz found that in addition to the smashed undercarriage and twisted propellers and wing, both the motor mount and stabilizer were bent.

Miss Earhart announced the plane probably would be sent back to the factory for repairs.

Two-Weeks Job

Mantz estimated repairs would take about two weeks at the factory, but four months if done here.

The plane was nearly out of sight of spectators when it crashed. Miss Earhart had taxied it to the far end of the runway in the dim morning light and then started to speed back for the takeoff when the tire burst.

It was the second time Miss Earhart narrowly escaped since the start of her flight from Oakland, Calif., last Thursday.

She and her three companions on the first hop of 2400 miles established a new record of 15 hours, 51½ minutes.

Then an inspection of her plane revealed the propeller bearings were almost dry, and Wilbur Thomas, motor expert, said the condition might have forced her down at sea had it not been discovered.

HUSBAND RECEIVES CRASH NEWS CALMLY

OAKLAND. (AP) — George Palmer Putnam said today that his wife, Amelia Earhart, would continue her world flight, interrupted at Honolulu when her twin motored plane met a mishap on an attempted takeoff.

"Miss Earhart wants to continue with her flight. I am quite agreeable and she will go on," he said.

Putnam received news of the mishap to his wife's plane at Honolulu calmly.

"The first thing is, she and the boys are safe—that is the important matter," he commented.

MORE ABOUT HEWES RANCH

ompany and D. Eyman Huff, founder of the company.

Sale of property to the realty company was ordered by Superior Judge James L. Allen. The sale probably will take place within three weeks, and will be followed in a year by subdivision of the 300-acre tract and its sale as small ranches and home sites.

The acreage, located just south of El Modena, comprises Hewes park and the old Hewes homesite.

Foreclosure of the property became inevitable in 1933, when the Hewes Ranch company became bankrupt. The company had been formed by Huff, formerly manager of the Hewes ranch, when David Hewes died, 20 years ago.

The action was based on a note to the realty company, which was given by Huff in 1927, for $196,000, secured by a mortguage given to the realty company, which was composed of heirs of the David Hewes estate. He later transferred his interest to the ranch company, which assumed obligation for the mortgage.

Suit against the ranch company was started on April 22, 1933, a month after it had gone into involuntary bankruptcy. A. I. Mellenthin and the First National bank of Santa Ana acted as receiver for the bankrupt company and were named as technical defendants in the action concluded yesterday.

A second action of the realty company against the ranch company, a complaint on a note for $5,796.25, was settled yesterday, when Superior Judge H. G. Ames allowed a judgement for $8,328.90, to be satisfied by proceeds from the deficiency sale.

This action was started in 1930 when the note became due, and three years before bankruptcy of the ranch company.

The Hewes ranch was one of the historic holdings in Orange county. It was operated for years by David Hewes, who died in 1917 when he was more than 90 years old.

Heirs took over about 700 acres of the ranch as the Hewes Realty company, selling it in small parcels. The remainder still functioned as the Hewes ranch, under management of Huff, until bankruptcy of the ranch company.

Yesterday's foreclosure action was one of the largest ever completed in the Orange county courts. The action was uncontested.

Papers Resume At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS. (AP) — Indianapolis newspapers resumed publication today when union printers voted to return to work after a 24-hour strike which left residents dependent upon outside papers for news yesterday.

A meeting was scheduled today by publishers and union officials to reopen discussions. The printers demanded a two-year contract for an increase in wages for day men from $1.15 to $1.25 an hour and from $1.24 to $1.34 per hour for night work. Approximately 300 men were out of work during the strike.

DOUBLE MURDER REPORTED

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (AP)—The deaths of Albert E. Miller, 75, retired railroad worker and his 48-year-old former housekeeper, Mrs. Alta Amy, were labeled "double murder" today by Police Chief Edward Meyers.

Miller's body, sprawled on the floor of the dining room of his home was discovered by his son Kenneth, 34, when he returned home early Friday from a night club where he is floor manager. Mrs. Amy, fatally injured, was seated in a chair nearby. Miller was clad in his underwear and both of Mrs. Amy's shoes were off. A bed in the next room was disordered.

Chief Meyers said the son admitted telling an older brother, Earl, 37, to hide a shotgun he threw out the window when he discovered the tragedy but explained he did not want people to think his father had killed himself. Police found the gun, with one shell discharged, in a nearby barn.

SEEK AID FOR GIRL SCOUTS

LAGUNA BEACH. — Contributions are being received in the campaign to raise funds for the Girl Scouts' Little House, according to Mrs. Henry Kenyon Beckwith, who announces that $800 remains to be raised.

City Engineer Arthur J. Stead reported that WPA labor has been received for the project and when the total of $1279 for materials has been received, construction will begin.

Plans have been made for the new house for some time, but the necessary cash on hand has expended for repairs on Camp Elizabeth Dolph, the Girls Scouts' camp in Alison canyon and upon general maintenance.

Teachers Plan Vacation Trips

OCEANVIEW.—John R. Peterson, superintendent of the Oceanview school, accompanied by Mrs. Peterson, left Friday to spend the Easter vacation in the desert country around Needles.

Other members of the school faculty planning vacation trips include Miss Phyllis Jamison, Helen Schoenberg, Genevieve White and Beatrice Brockman, who will visit in San Francisco; Eddith Spencer will spend several days in Palm Springs, and Ruth Spencer will be a guest of friends in Sacramento.

WOOD REFUTES FROST RUMOR

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce acted today to correct unfavorable impressions in the Midwest regarding conditions here.

Secretary Howard I. Wood received a letter from W. B Van Metre, managing director of the Ohio Mutual Tornado, Cyclone and Windstorm Insurance association.

The letter said reports were current in the section that all the flowers in the state had been ruined by frost, and that there was extensive property damage because of the freeze and smudge. Van Metre asked if Southern California was experiencing a falling off of tourist trade because of the factors mentioned.

Wood wrote back at once, in order to correct the erroneous impressions. He said the tourist traffic here is the greatest since 1929, and that the flowers are the most glorious in many years past because of the heavy rainfall. He also called attention to the fact that it is estimated that but 38 per cent of the citrus fruit in Orange county was damaged by the frost, but that the county expects as a whole to get as big or bigger returns from citrus than would have been the case without the freezes, although individual growers might have suffered.

Farm Inspectors Stage Dinner

Orange County Inspectors association of the agricultural commissioners' office entertained their ladies at dinner last evening at Danigers, carrying out a Mexican theme in keeping with the subject of the talk which Arthur McFadden presented as speaker of the evening.

McFadden spoke on "Mexico," giving details of the banana, coffee and sugar cane industries. Spanish music and dances were provided by Mrs. A. Hart and her daughter, Rosemary.

Special guests, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. McFadden, included Mrs. Juanita Lane, Mrs. John Henry, and Kenneth Sloop, formerly with the department office here, and Commissioner D. W. Tubbs and Mrs. Tubbs. T. E. McLeod, association president, was master of ceremonies, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Backus were the committee in charge of the affair.

FITTS BACK AT WORK

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—District Attorney Buron Fitts returned to work yesterday. His left arm is still bandaged from the bullet fired into his automobile as he drove from his home to that of his parents, the night of March 7.

Accidents on the new auto highways and country roads of Germany increased 28 per cent in the year ending in October.

KVOE Gets Bulletin About Big Easter Egg Hunt

A week from today, and the big hunt will be on!

It's the second annual Easter egg hunt, to be staged by The Journal and KVOE next Saturday, March 27, in the Santa Ana Municipal bowl.

Manager Ernest L. Spencer of KVOE received a radio bulletin from the Easter Bunny today, and was informed that the rabbit is making plans to entertain more kids than jammed the bowl last year in the exciting and colorful event.

Prizes Promised

The Easter Bunny promised to have thousands of eggs and many prizes hidden in the bowl when the children start the big Easter egg hunt. There'll be enough colored candy eggs to fill hundreds of Santa Ana nests, it was promised.

Councilman Ernest Layton is cooperating with The Journal and KVOE in making arrangements at the bowl for the event. Layton has arranged to have the bowl all ready for the hunt.

The Safeway stores have offered to donate a lot of Easter eggs—the candy kind. And the police department will have officers there to help handle the big crowd.

Chance For All

All kids 12 years of age or less will be entitled to take part in the second annual Easter egg hunt. The youngsters will be divided into two groups this year, those from one to seven years old in one group, and those from eight to 12 in another. This will give the smaller kids a better chance to find their share of the eggs and prizes.

It will be the biggest affair of the year for the kids. It's all free. Be sure to be there!

Mr. Lester Fountain
Broadway Theatre
Santa Ana, California

Dear Les:

Allow me to congratulate you on your selection of the latest subject "Torture Money" released by the Metro Goldwyn Mayer studios in the "Crime Does Not Pay" series.

Directed and produced as it has been, in a most impressive manner, this picture will without a doubt perform a most worthy service of enlightening the public with the various vicious organized crime rackets throughout the United States. All of which result in the cost of untold millions of dollars to American people each year.

There is no doubt that the youth will benefit from the impression they will receive from this picture, and will reap a lifelong benefit by seeing it.

This picture, is a laudable and impressive manner, exposes the newest menace now prevalent, in the United States. In addition to being an informative subject, it is highly interesting and I sincerely recommend it to the citizens of Santa Ana.

With best regards, I am,

Yours very truly,

Floyd W. Howard

FARMERS ASK CURBING OF EROSION

Move to Expand Project Started at Meeting In Fullerton

Farmers with serious soil erosion problems are seeking inclusion in the government soil conservation program.

Yesterday a meeting of the farm property owners, city officials and others was held in Fullerton to discuss the plans for inclusion of the areas damaged by the recent floods in the government control program.

Another meeting will be held next Tuesday, and following that session it is expected that farmers will circulate petitions asking that their property be included in the La Habra soil conservation area, now comprised of 25,000 acres of land.

The farmers who are concerned suffered heavy erosion damage to their poperty, it was pointed out today by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, who attended the session. Negotiations were started to change the boundaries of the experimental area to include those properties which suffered erosion damage.

The government furnishes men from the WPA and CCC camps on the project, while the property owners supply material for construction of erosion control works.

Those attending the meeting besides Wahlberg included R. D. Perry, representing the soil conservation service, officials of the Times-Mirror company, large landholders in the district. Stanley Chapman, R. A. Marsen, Walter Buckenthaler and others.

Composer's Widow Will Be Honored

Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

(Opinions and comment expressed in this column are not necessarily those of The Journal.—Editor's note.)

Rev. George Wixom, San Bernardino, will address the Townsend mass meeting at 7:30 tonight, in Townsend hall, 509 West Fourth street. T. Dunstan Collins will direct the NYA orchestra in a concert. District Manager J. H. Walsh will be master of ceremonies. The public is invited.

W. R. ROBB

F. F. Stockebrand of the Garden Grove club was in Santa Ana yesterday. He came to headquarters to make arrangements for next Monday evening's meeting of the Townsend club which will be held in the American Legion hall at 7:30 p. m. Last Monday evening the writer was to have spoken there, but rain prevented. At Stockebrand's request the writer will speak next Monday evening.

F. L. Carrier, member of the Santa Ana schools group of dramatic instructors, will address the Santa Ana club No. 2 meeting Monday evening at 7:30 in Santa Ana Townsend hall. The public is invited.

* * *

In tonight's column in keeping with my promise to George C. Law, Santa Ana, I reprint the last three paragraphs of a column in the Townsend Weekly of March 15:

"I was just thinking about the gold which Uncle Sam and his federal reserve banks have hidden away in vaults. Gold is money. It always has been and probably always will be. It was a medium of exchange between American citizens until the government forbade its use as such. Do you know that there is over $11,000,000,000 worth of gold now in the possession of our government? What does this mean in terms of money? Under the gold standard laws of the administration of Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover, the government could issue $2.50 in currency against every dollar of gold it held . . . or print currency behind which there would be 40c in gold for every dollar of paper money issued."

"We have gold in equivalent to approximately $100 for every man, woman and child in the United States. If this gold were reduced to coins and distributed equally throughout the United States, every man, woman and child . . . black and white . . . would be jingling a hundred dollars in gold in their pockets. If the government would print "gold-standard" currency against the gold now in vaults, the amount of currency would total over twenty-five billion dollars, or more than five times the amount of currency now used in the United States. This would be sufficient to give every man, woman and child approximately $250 in gold standard currency.

"Now let me point out what this would mean . . . if this currency were printed and put in circulation. Approximately 90 per cent of business is transacted on credit. For every dollar of actual money (currency) nine dollars of credit or check-book money is used as a medium of exchange. We, therefore, have under the central government, gold sufficient to create $2500 worth of buying power for every man, woman and child in the United States. That's something to think about. I was just thinking about it . . . in connection with putting the Townsend plan in operation . . . when congress enacts it into law. It answers the foolish question, 'Where will the money come from to support the Townsend plan?'"

Shafer Paintings Attract Notice

Burr Shafer's music paintings now on display at the city library are attracting much attention by their unique themes, representing as they do Shafer's own interpretations of musical expressions on canvas.

Abstract in thought, they portray phases and forms of music. One of a different type is his "Liszt Etude in D," which is a picture of the hands of Earle Fraser, local pianist. The same exhibit was shown recently in a Los Angeles art gallery and received praise from Southland critics at the time.

FARMER HELD

Zentaro Sato, 51, farmer of route 4, Santa Ana, was in the county jail today under charges of failing to appear in court to answer a traffic citation. He was arrested by sheriff's officers yesterday.

NO EXPLOSION DANGER HERE

Santa Ana need fear no catastrophe such as struck New London, Texas, when about 500 school children and teachers were blasted to death.

It was pointed out today by Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson that in this city there are no hollow tile buildings to collect gas, and offer a potential hazard from explosion.

In addition, there is little chance for gas to collect in quantities large enough to be dangerous. This city is not situated near a big oil field such as the one in Texas, it was pointed out.

About Folks

News of Your Family and Friends Is Important. The Journal Welcomes It. Telephone 3600.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitney, who have lived in Placentia for the past six months, moved recently to Santa Ana, where they will make their home at 1802 Spurgeon street. Mrs. Whitney was formerly Miss Dorothy Abbott.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Purkey of 916 West Fourth street plan to leave this week-end for Olympia, Wash., where they will spent a month on business and pleasure. The former, a local real estate broker, will complete several important property transactions while there.

Postmaster Leon Dwight and Mrs. Dwight of San Pedro were luncheon guests at Daniger's cafe yesterday. They were entertained by Postmaster Frank Harwood and Mrs. Harwood of Santa Ana. Dwight is secretary-treasurer of the California chapter of the National Postmaster's association. Harwood is a director of the state association.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Brannon of Huntington Park will visit relatives in Santa Ana tomorrow. Mr. Brannon formerly was manager of the Brock Glass company of Santa Ana.

CONSUMERS ARE TO GET TIPS

Do you know your beans? Maybe you do and maybe you don't, but a famous economist is going to point out how you can know your beans, when he talks at the Monday night meeting of the Orange county federal forum, in the high school auditorium.

He is Dr. William Trufont Foster, first president of Reed college, head of the Pollack foundation for economic research, and a figure of national reputation in the educational field.

Dr. Foster will talk on "Can Consumers Stand the Truth?" as a past member of the consumer's advisory board of the National Recovery administration.

The speaker declares that telling the truth to consumers about what they buy would hurt only such business as now goes after the consumer's dollars with the "bogey of non-existent dangers, misleading cost statements, romantic evasion of facts, or downright mendacity."

He will speak at 7:30 p. m. The meeting is open to the public.

Mexican Arrested Here Blamed for Woman's Death

A Los Angeles coroner's jury yesterday placed blame for the death of Mrs. Olga Valle, 30-year-old housewife, on Francisco Cancino, arrested here this week by Deputy Sheriffs Steve Duhart and Robert Steinberger as he was fleeing toward Mexico.

The suspect admitted, authorities say, that he stabbed Mrs. Valle to death in a fury, after he had discovered a negro in her bedroom.

Cancino was arrested by Duhart and Steinberger when they saw him climbing over the railing of the Santa Ana river bridge at Seventeenth street. They were returning from a trip to the north end of the county in search of the man they found accidentally.

The woman was found slain at her home, 5737 Duarte street, Los Angeles, last Wednesday. An all-points bulletin from Los Angeles resulted in the arrest of Cancino here within 12 hours after the woman's death.

Murder Admission Called Delusion

What started out like a murder case was scratched off the books today.

Basil Duke Coleman, 54-year-old transient, was in the county jail. But he was serving a 10-day sentence for vagrancy and will not be held for the murder of his brother in 1899 in Edmonton, Ky., to which he confessed to Santa Ana police March 11.

Deputy District Attorney Clarence Sprague reported today he had had letters from the district attorney in Kentucky and from Tucson, Ariz. The Arizona letter reported Coleman had told a similar story there in 1932 after he was arrested while walking around the streets telling passers-by that "I ought to be hanged."

Sprague said Coleman apparently had been suffering for some time with the delusion that he has murdered someone.

Newport Thefts Probed By Officers

Newport police and sheriff's officers today were investigating burglary of two beach homes.

Investigating at the Campbell residence at 3512 Ocean Front, Newport, Deputy Sheriff R. R. Lutes found that the cabin next door, owned by Mrs. Bertha Hookway of Pasadena, also had been forced open and ransacked. He was checking today to find out what had been taken.

Lenten Meditations

"Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." Read Hebrews 11:32-12:2.

The Book of the Revelation has in its opening chapter, a fine phrase about "the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ." Impatience and Christianity do not go well together.

The conscience of our time is deeply stirred by the old, entrenched, corporate evils of civilization. We shall never rest until we get rid of them. There is, however, always the danger that in moments of hasty enthusiasm for reform we may sell out our spiritual birthright to some agitator who cares little or nothing for religion, but who is more than willing to make use of us for his own purposes.

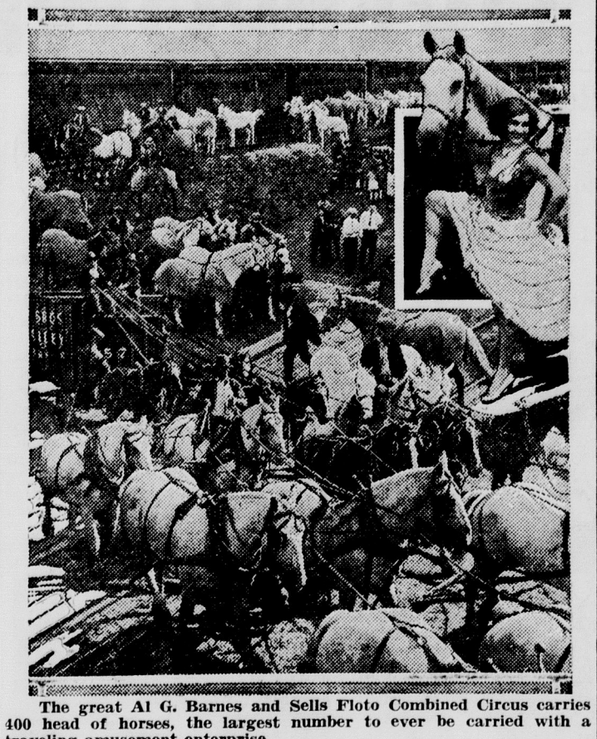

It is possible—personally I think it is probable—that Judas' sin was impatience rather than greed. His Master seemed to him to dally unduly long. He therefore betrayed him in order to force the pace of history to bring the rescuing and vindicating legions of angels from heaven. If this be the fact we have here the classic example of the ill-starred marriage of an impetuous religion to a fatal impatience.

Prayer: Help us, O God, so to combat the evil which is in the world that we do not fall its victims through our impatience, and so to labor for righteousness that our words and deeds shall not pass uselessly away, but may partake of the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ. Amen.

SALESMAN JAILED

Charged with a parole violation, Earl R. Peckinpaugh, 44, Anaheim salesman, was booked at the county jail yesterday after his arrest by Deputy Sheriff A. W. Fullerton.

Barnes Circus Shows Here Monday

The great Al G. Barnes and Sells Floto Combined Circus carries 400 head of horses, the largest number to ever be carried with a traveling amusement enterprise.

That thrilling hour which has excited Johnny all week is upon us.

In fact with sunup Monday it's here. The exact minute is when the special trains of the Al G. Barnes and Sells Floto Combined Circus rumble to a stop in Santa Ana and begin unloading for the season's first day of white-top amusement.

Circus Day! The holiday that makes all the city kin and which brings the rich and poor to sit side by side and "Ah" and "Oh" and marvel at the wonders and daring that neither age nor time can dim.

Dawn Monday will bring to the South Main and Pomona Ave, circus lot some 26 acres of tent necessary to house this amusement enterprise formed by the uniting of these famous names of the tented world.

Hundreds of the world's foremost arenic stars, and scores of European novelty acts are part of this year's program. Features never before attempted are made possible because of the uniting of the two giants of the tented world. One of the many hundreds is the largest group of ferocious jungle beasts ever assembled. Despite the fact these unruly animals refuse to be tamed or trained they are made to perform.

This daring feat is accomplished by Bert Nelson, who with only a chair and whip as his protection, steps into the cages and forces the brutes to obey his command.

While everything is new with the Al G. Barnes and Sells Floto Combined Circus for the 1937 season, every department has been greatly increased in size This year 60 clowns cavort and make merry. Four hundred horses comprize the horse fair, while the menagerie consists of 800 furred and feathered creatures displayed in electric-lighted cages.

A riding act, the Cristiani troupe, came to this circus direct from European triumphs. In the European contingent is also the Amerika, in balancing feats high in the dome of the tent, on a swinging trapeze. Hal Silvers, genius of the tight wire, is also from Europe, as are the Fly Artonys and the Two Karleys.

Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m., the doors opening an hour earlier.

Downtown general admission and reserved seat tickets on sale circus day at the McCoy Drug store, 104 West Fourth street.

McKinney Talks on Lobbyists to Women's League

"We're all lobbyists, in our small way," B. Z. McKinney, chairman of the county Democratic central committee, told members of the Santa Ana League of Women Voters at their monthly meeting yesterday in the Doris Kathryn tearooms.

McKinney was one of two speakers. He discussed "Lobbying, Good and Bad."

The other speaker was Mrs. F. B. Browning, who talked on the National Re-employment service and its work. She said more than 1,000,000 placements had been made in California through the service during the past year.

Mrs. Ora K. Heine, past president of the group, reviewed legislative bills now before the state legislature, and committee chairmen reported on the work of their groups.

Plans were laid for the annual meeting of the league, and election of officers, to be held April 16.

A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. Terry Watson, Mrs. J. D. Campbell and Mrs. A. J. Knight, was appointed.

Dykes Tutors Rookie Mesner From Los Angeles

Brea Trackmen Top Tustin, 58-56

LAGUNA FIRST IN CLASS B MEET HERE

Henderson Hurls Discus 126 ft. 6 in.; Tillers Dominate Class C

Brea-Olinda won Class A, Laguna Beach Class B and Tustin Class C competition in an Orange league triangular track-and-field meet conducted at Poly field here yesterday.

Duplicating the Long Beach-Saint meet the day before, Brea-Olinda captured the half-mile relay to eke out a 58 to 56 win over Vincent Humeston's Tustin's Farmers. Maurice (Red) Guyer's Laguna Artists trailed with 23 points.

High-point honors went to Brea's Sam Henderson, who captured three events. Five of his points, however, did not count because each athlete was limited to two field events.

Henderson hurled the discus 126 feet, 6 inches for a remarkable effort. He tossed the shot 41 feet and broadjumped 18:8.

Tustin's Dick Ferguson was a double winner in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Both races were won by large margins in the comparatively slow times of 10.4 and 23.3. Sam Francis, high-scoring center on the Tustin's southland basketball champs, romped home in a fine 2:16 half-mile. He had been practicing only two days.

In the Class B meet, Laguna stole the show with 45 points, nosing out Brea which ammassed 43 and Tustin 37¾. Tustin captured the Class C meet with 50 digits, with Brea and Laguna Beach bringing up the rear with 29½ and 12½ points.

NOMINATE 103 FOR DERBY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—There are 103 fine young thoroughbreds named for the Kentucky Derby this year.

Reaping Reward, Pompoon and Brooklyn, favored by the nation's turf writers, and almost every other worthy 3-year-old are among them.

From the list announced today by Col. M. J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, will be selected the 15 or more to settle once again that old difference of opinion as to "whose hoss is the best suh," that began more than 100 years ago in the blue grass state.

Raoul Walsh's Sunset Trail II, pride of Hollywood's cinema colony, is the only imported thoroughbred named. Another West coast owner who hopes to cash in is A. A. Baroni with No Dice.

Stanford Vow Boys Gross University Million Dollars

PALO ALTO. (AP)—Stanford University football teams on which the "vow boys" played brought in approximately one million dollars to the university over a period of three years, a published report of 1935-36 athletic income disclosed.

The "vow boys" were 1933 sophomores who swore they never would be beaten by a University of Southern California team. They kept their oaths. Admission receipts for the 1935-36 football season were $338,455. The 1934-35 receipts were $345,415; for 1933-34, the receipts were $285,399.

EXCELSIOR IS SAINTS' FOE AT POMONA

Thirty-nine Southern California high school baseball teams, Santa Ana included, will swing into action in the Pomona 20-30 club's annual tournament opening in Pomona Monday.

Coach Joe Kloegler's Saints, who dropped a 5-1 exhibition to Fullerton of the Foothill league in a practice game here yesterday, will draw Excelsior in the first round at Pomona.

There will be a consolation bracket for first-round losers, but two defeats will eliminate a team from the Pomona tourney.

Other first-round pairings are Anaheim vs. Montebello, Pomona vs. Brea-Olinda, Glendale vs. Placentia, Fullerton vs. Sweetwater, Alhambra vs. El Monte, Redondo vs. Bonita, Woodrow Wilson of Long Beach vs. Monrovia, Whittier vs. Pasadena, Long Beach Poly vs. Chino, Pasadena Muir-Teach vs. Herbert Hoover of Glendale, Inglewood vs. Burbank, Escondido vs. Augustine, San Diego Hoover vs. Grossmont.

Singles by Johnson, Goodchild and Pryror, combined with two walks, produced four runs and won for Fullerton in the second inning here yesterday off Pitcher Tommy Wilkins. Wilkins' single accounted for Santa Ana's only run, which brought in Gene O'Campo in the fifth after O'Campo was safe on an error. Fullerton outhit the Saints, 6-5.

SACS, BEAVERS COLLIDE AT FULLERTON

Portland Employs Hobo Carson on Mound for First of Two Games

FULLERTON, (AP) — Portland and Sacramento open a two-game weekend exhibition baseball series today, with the Sacs journeying over from their Riverside training camp for hostilities.

Manager Bill Sweeney named Hobo Carson to start on the mound against Sacramento, with Hank McDonald ready for relief duty. Bill Killefer of the Solons nominated Bob Klinger and Southpaw Tom Seats to pitch for his club.

Tomorrow, Killefer will use Bill Schmidt and Heber Newsom, and Portland had Bill Radonits and Whitey Hilcher ready for the fray.

WHITE SOX PERFORM AT ONTARIO CAMP

ONTARIO, (AP)—Ontario went baseball completely today as the Chicago White Sox and the Los Angeles Angels lined up for the first of a two-game series here this weekend.

Marking the first appearance of Manager Jimmy Dykes American Leaguers, a large crowd was expected.

Dykes planned to pitch Duncan Rigney, recruit up from St. Paul, Frank Papish, Omaha product, and Bill Dietrich, bespectacled hurler.

Manager Truck Hannah said he would start Southpaw Ray Prim, with Archie Campbell, Newt Kimball or Earl Overman working the last part of the game.

Appearing against his former teammates will be young Steve Mesner, whom Dykes is grooming to succeed him at third base.

Washington State, Oregon Fives Play For Title Tonight

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—With the northern division title as the prize victory, Washington State college and the university of Oregon basketball teams will clash here tonight in the final play-off of a three-way title tie.

For the playoff, Oregon drew a bye and W. S. C. defeated the Washington Huskies, 36 to 33, a week ago. Tonight's survivor will meet Stanford for the Pacific Coast conference title.

RED HILL TO EXTEND S. A. GOLFERS

Santa Ana Country club's 8½-point lead in Southern California association golf, group two, is expected to dwindle tomorrow afternoon when Dr. Garland C. Ross' divot-diggers go up against Red Hill on the latter's course in Uplands.

If they can salvage as much as 6 or 7 points out of 21 from Red Hill, however, the local swingers will go into their final match with Mt. Meadows here a week from tomorrow with a fine chance to win the divisional title.

Red Hill must play its final match away from home—at Redlands—and this will be to Santa Ana's advantage if the local team holds up fairly well at Uplands.

Santa Ana must score at least 6½ points tomorrow to hold the lead in divisional standings, which find Santa Ana with 58 points, Red Hill 49½, Redlands 33 and Mt. Meadows 27½.

Santa Ana's last three teams will be juggled for the Redlands match. The playing order:

No. 1—Dick Ewert and Jack Robertson.

No. 2—W. W. Foote and Ed Holmes, jr.

No. 3—A. W. Robinson and Ted Burkett.

No. 4—Earl Wilson and Ben Manker.

No. 5—Harold Wright and Ray Chapman.

No. 6—Elmer Curry and J. K. McDonald.

No. 7—Warren Fletcher and L. H. Robinson.

PINKSTON TO LEAD JAYSEE FIFTEEN

Roquet, Tauber, Herbert Score as Santa Anans Retain Clean Slate

Santa Ana Junior college's smooth rugby varsity listed three consecutive victims today, after vanquishing the Pasadena Athletic clubmen, 10-5, at the Municipal bowl last night.

Russell Roquet

Ernest Butterworth's Dons previously had disposed of the U. S. C. Frosh, 5-0, and the U. C. L. A. second team, 6-0.

The teams turned in a lively exhibition despite a wet, slippery ball.

The Dons loaned the visitors, who substituted for the Cal-Tech varsity which was unable to appear, Bill Semnacher and Bob Pannell.

Fred Pinkston, tackle in football, was named captain of the Dons just before game-time.

Roquet, Tauber Score

Santa Ana's scores came in the first half with Russell (Rusty) Roquet and Dick Tauber, the two giant forwards, making the two trys and Joe Herbert, at the center three-quarter position, making successful the two conversion kicks.

The first break of the game came after a kick to Herbert, who found himself in the open behind perfect interference. His progress was cut short of the goal line, but after a five-yard scrum Forward Roquet fell on the ball for three points. Herbert kicked from 25 yards out for the other two.

Near the close of the first 30-minute half, almost all of which was played in the opposition's territory, the ball was dribbled by the scrum over the line, with Dick Tauber making the try. . . . Herbert again kicked the conversion to put the score at 10-0.

The Pasadena outfit started the second period by holding the Dons in their own territory. . . . Threatening several times, the club broke through to have their scrum half, Middlemas, score a try in the corner of the field. . . . Kicking at a severe angle, Trowbridge who performed at the wing three-quarters post added the additional two digits.

McCann Plays Well

Fullback Sam McCann played a fine defensive game and saved the game several times with kick outs.

Harold Mosiman broadcast a running account of the game, explaining the terms of line out, kick out, scrum, try, penalty kicks and other phases of the game.

The lineup:

Santa Ana (10)	Pos.	(5) Pas. Ath. Club
Pinkston	Front row	Hart
Twist	Hooker	House
Kotlar	Front Row	Semnacher
Roquet	Lock	Ferguson
Titensor	Lock	Ward
Tauber	Breakaway
Wagner	Breakaway	Bull
Boyd	Scrum Half	Middlemas
Rash	Standoff	Eccles
Stevens	Center ¾	Higbee
Herbert	Center ¾	Lawson
Lentz	Wing ¾	Pannell
Stanley	Wing ¾	Trowbridge
McCann	Fullback	Provine

Armstrong Chalks Up 58th Victory

By SCOTTY RESTON

NEW YORK. (AP)—Henry Armstrong, a sort of modernized personification of the black plague, is the latest scourge of the New York prize ring.

Two weeks ago Armstrong came here from Los Angeles with a reputation as a puncher. His first time out he knocked out Mike Belloise, New York's claimant to the featherweight championship. Since Henry is recognized in California as featherweight king, that question was just about settled, although Mike's title was not officially at stake.

So last night James Joy Johnston matched Armstrong against Aldo Soldi, a tough lightweight from Italy. Outweighed by 8½ pounds, Armstrong actually cut Spoldi down to his size during the 10 rounds. "Cut" is the right word, for the negro slashed, battered and pounded until Spoldi was well drained and well beaten.

At that, Armstrong was disappointed. He had won seven straight fights by knockouts—he has lost only four out of 62 bouts since he started. He was simply amazed, as were the 9852 customers in the Garden, that Spoldi did not collapse.

In the memory of old timers in Haymaker hall, no fighter has come along quite like Armstrong.

He comes out of his corner at the first bell pounding with both hands. He hits like a compressed air drill and isn't reluctant to absorb a few punches.

Armstrong has a skull and cross-bones on the robe he wears into the ring, and with amusing and child-like simplicity, he says of his opponents:

"Sure I expect them to go out!"

He's going back to the coast this week to fight Pete Degrasse in Los Angeles April 6. But he'll return with the flowers in May and if there are any shrinking violets in the featherweight or lightweight divisions, they'd better get out before the plague arrives.

Red Sox Count on Doerr of Padres to Bolster Lineup

Note: This is another of a series of major league pennant prospects.)

BY PAUL MICKELSON

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Give the gold-plated Boston Red Sox one Biondy Ryan or a Joe Di Maggio and they might set the American league prairie on fire this summer.

Loaded with all-star talent, Tom Yawkey's disappointments of 1936 need but one good, hustling rookie to lift them into a hot championship contender.

Manager Joe Cronin hopes one of three fine-looking rookies may supply the spark. They are Bobby Doerr, 19-year-old second baseman who dazzled the Pacific Coast league with his superb fielding and .342-hitting for San Diego last season; 22-year-old Dominic Dallessandro, hustling outfielder from readiing, Pa., and Buster Mills, outfielder from Rochester.

Only Roger Cramer seems assured of an outfield berth. Mel Alameda and four new outfielders are in the fight for the other two positions.

Except for himself, Cronin is set in the infield. He has a better looking Jimmie Foxx at first, Eric McNair at short and Pinky Higgins on third. Cronin may start at second unless Young Doerr develops fast. Oscar Melillo and Jack Kroner will be the infield reserves.

Rick Ferrell will be chief backstop again with Moe Berg chief second unless Johnny Peacock or Eugene Desautels can beat them out.

The Red Sox will depend on Lefty Grove and Wesley Ferrell as their pitching mainstays. Johnny Marcum says he's in great shape. So is Fred Ostermueller. Jack Wilson will be counted a regular, with Rube Walbert for spot pitching.

DON MERMEN JOIN LEAGUE

By BOB PRESCOTT

Formation of a new Southern California Junior college swimming league was announced today by Coach Jess Haxton, Santa Ana jaysee swimming mentor.

The new league is to consist of the combined members of the Eastern and Western divisions of the old Southern California J. C. swimming conference, and will include seven members—Santa Ana, Fullerton, Chaffey, Compton, Pasadena, Los Angeles, and Glendale junior colleges.

No official schedule has been made for the new league as yet, but the first round of competition will begin on April 2, Haxton indicated. Santa Ana will probably meet Los Angeles or Pasadena on that date.

Santa Ana Junior college's first regularly scheduled meet will be a non-conference match to be held at Fullerton Jaysee April 15. Compton J. C. will encounter the Dons in another non-league contest April 20, while Santa Ana will meet Occidental college on April 30. Chaffey Junior college will swim against Santa Ana May 7.

Unbeaten Stanford Plays Bruin Nine

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Stanford university's baseball team, unbeaten in four starts, and the Bruins of University of California at Los Angeles meet here today.

The Indians planned to start Rasmussen on the hill, while Coach Marty Krug of U. C. L. A. said Earl (Top) Sargent would pitch for the Bruins.

TRAINING CAMP DOPE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Those pitchers who thought there was too much Joe DiMaggio on the New York Yankees last year are in for an unpleasant surprise this season. The Yankees' sophomore rookie arrived in camp weighing 198 pounds, 10 more than he packed in 1936, and said he expects to start the season at more than 200.

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—After tangling with the Cleveland Indians today, the New York Giants begin a week of comparative rest while they put the finishing touches on their spring conditioning. In point of spring competition, they are the most advanced club in either league.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Wanted: Several automobile drivers, in the Brooklyn Dodgers camp. Manager Burleigh Grimes' orders are that none of the players who drove their cars down to the camp can drive them back, so the boys are scouting around for operators to bring them home.

* * *

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Wild Bill Hallahan, Jake Motty and Ray (Peaches) Davis were booked for mound duty today as the Cincinnati Reds tangle with the Detroit Tigers. General Manager Warren C. Giles denied rumors that Reds would acquire Diz Dean as aftermath his signing.

* * *

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers were jubilant today after a Miami physician said Tommy Bridges, star pitcher, is suffering from a strained muscle in his left side and not a more serious ailment. Jack Russell, released by the Boston Red Sox, may be added to the Tiger hurling forces. He conferred with Manager Cochrane yesterday.

* * *

PASADENA. (AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes ordered out Bill Dietrich, a veteran, and two freshman hurlers, John Rigney and Frank Papish, to pitch three innings apiece for the Chicago White Sox against Los Angeles in the first game of the training season.

* * *

AVALON. (AP)—Linus Frey, who came to the Chicago cubs from Brooklyn in exchange for Woody English, is making a strong bid for a regular infield job. His hitting has caught Manager Charlie Grimm's eye.

* * *

SAN BERNARDINO. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, fearing Paul Waner may not relent in his demands for more money, tried out Johnny Dickshot and Morris Sands today in the outfield. Meanwhile at Sarasota, Fla., Waner, the National League's No. 1 hitter, reported he had "heard nothing" from the Pirate management.

* * *

DAYTONA BEACH. (AP)—Washington batters faced the Dean brothers in their exhibition game with the Cardinals here today. Brother Paul was slated to give the sore arm another test, while "Ole Diz" watched from the bench.

* * *

SAN ANTONIO. (AP)—Julio Bonetti was Manager Rogers Hornsby's choice to start on the mound against the Minneapolis Millers, of the American association.

* * *

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Catcher Cliff Bolton, seriously threatened for his post on the Washington Senators by big "Shanty" Hogan, went to Sanford, Fla., today to seek relief from a shoulder pain. He expected to spend a week or 10 days under the care of Lee Jensen, trainer for the Chattanooga club.

* * *

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Jimmy Foxx is out of the Red Sox' spring season opening against the Tigers at Lakeland Sunday and now it appears that Manager Joe Cronin will be forced to turn over second base to Bobby Doerr. Cronin, who has not yet acquired the knack of throwing from second to first, twisted something in his arm.

HOLLYWOOD UPSET AS CAGE TOURNEY ENTERS FINALS

DENVER. (AP)—Best of them all in basketball's toughest grind, the Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., and the Safeways of Denver test tonight which is the better.

The National A.A.U. title—final reward in the cage world's weeklong "world series"—is the stake they'll shoot for. The championship game will begin about 8:15 o'clock, Pacific Standard time.

This is the first time a Denver team ever has come this close to a National cage title.

Denver soundly whipped the Hollywood Stars, Olympic titlists and 1936 runnersup, 49 to 32, in last night's semifinal round. Bartlesville had to fight all the way against the Kansas City Trails before winning, 43-35, although the trails outscored the Oilers from the floor.

Hollywood and Kansas City meet at 6:45 p. m. (PST) for the honor of third place.

Tonight's tussle for the championship the McPherson Refiners won last year matches the best teams in basketball's major league, the Missouri Valley A. A. U. circuit. Bartlesville won the league title without a defeat, defeating Denver twice.

Denver's big three are Jack McCracken, crack all-around player from Marryville, Mo., teachers; Bob Gruenig, 6-foot-8-inch center from Chicago and Jack Colvin, Turkey, Texas, product who is deadly in close work under the basket.

Bartlesville will counter with headliners like Charley Hyatt, a great "money player," Joe Fortenberry, Bud Browning from Oklahoma University and Jay Wallenstrom, possibly the tournament's best guard.

Denver won its semifinal game with a driving rush, setting a scoring pace from the halfway point of the first period, to 5,500 yelling fans' delight.

Denver's inspired team, never able to get past the quarter-finals in four previous national tournaments, sparred with Hollywood in the opening 10 minutes, then grabbed the lead and kept firing in points until substitutes took over late in the game.

Frank Lubin, Hollywood's hard-working center, and Jack Hupp, tourney "freshman" from the University of Southern California, did most of the heavy work for the losers.

Lubin played Gruenig, top scorer of the Missouri Valley league, fairly evenly, but Hollywood had no one to stop "Tex" Colvin, who was invariably on hand when a follow shot was offered or a rebound to be grabbed. Colvin scored seven field goals.

King Kong Kox Challenges Steinke, Strongberg Here

King Kong Kox, the celebrated northern bone-crusher, who has ruined aspiring heavyweight wrestlers from Vancouver south to his home stamping grounds, Lodi, Calif., and who makes his first appearance in the Orange County Athletic club's ring Monday night, today issued a challenge to the winner of the German heavyweight match between giant Hans Steinke, reformed German gunner, and Rudy Strongberg, youthful challenger.

"If there's going to be any championships turned loose," said Herr Kox, "I'm in on it.

The Lodi lambaster asserts that while he was born in this country, he comes from German parentage, and therefore is entitled to consideration.

"From now on call me Herr King Kong Kox," said the grappler, "and after I get through with the winner of the coming match, it'll be okay just to call me Herr Champion."

Kox wrestles Abie Yourist in the secondary feature Monday on a ladies' free night program. Other bouts show Young Stecher, the Orange county youth, meeting the Japanese star, Mitsu Hamanaki, and Captain Myron Cox opposing Loue Andrews.

CAMPAIGN FOR OIL LEASES BOOMS IN NORTH COUNTY SECTION

ANAHEIM IS SCENE OF ACTIVITY

Bishop Company Buys Continental Lease in Richfield Area

The whisper of oil was in the air again today. North Orange county ranchers were listening to the rumors of sudden riches—and the persuasions of oil company agents seeking leases on their lands.

Sudden leasing activity was noted following reports, apparently well-founded, of favorable showings at the Perry W. Mathis well at 101 highway and Ball road.

Many sections of the North county area are enjoying a full-fledged boom following completion of several good wells, especially in the Richfield and Yorba Linda districts.

Lease Is Sold

The most startling development of the week was purchase of holdings of the Continental Oil Company on the Kraemer lease, Placentia, by the Bishop Oil Company, a San Francisco concern. Four producing wells were included in the deal and were taken over immediately by the Bishop organization.

In Yorba Linda a derrick is being erected on the Lawrence Kraemer property on Citrus avenue, scene of a brisk leasing campaign. Completion of several other wells in this area were predicted within a few days.

The Amalbamated Oil company, and Hillman-Long, Inc., holders of leases in the Anaheim area, including the Mathis property, are reported to be buying up all leases available in that vicinity.

Reports Verified

Amalgamated Oil is reported to have leased the Wasser, Douglas, Schulte and other ranches east of Placentia boulevard in the vicinity of the Mathis ranch.

L. L. Hillman, of the Hillman-Long company, verified reports this week that his company is seeking leases in that area.

Definite confirmation that the wildcat venture at Ball road and 101 highway had struck pay dirt could not be secured, but street-corner gossip gave the report strength.

Gas Found

The drill, it was said, has gone through six feet of sand capable of producing 400 barrels of oil daily by use of pump, and the Shell company, putting the well down, has decided to go deeper in search of free-flowing oil.

It also is reported that at one strata gas was reached, and at a lower level heavy oil, unsuitable for production, was found.

In the meantime "fishing" operations for a lost drill in the hole have been finished, and boring is being resumed with the eyes of every ranch owner in the vicinity anxiously on the well.

BEAUTY WINNER TAKES TRIP

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Miss Marian Reeves of Huntington Beach left Burbank at noon today on a plane trip to San Francisco as a guest of United Air Lines. Miss Reeves was winner in the recent beauty contest staged by Orange county beach cities.

When Miss Reeves returns from the trip to San Francisco she will take a trip to Catalina, an award offered by Ed Ainsworth of the Los Angeles Times.

While in San Francisco Miss Reeves will spend a few days with her sister, Miss Gwendolyn Reeves.

Pastor's Aid of Church Meets

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — The Pastor's Aid of the Christian church met this afternoon at the church, with Mrs. W. R. McKee and Mrs. Z. D. Crane as hostesses.

Miss Bertha Pann, instructor in the Pacific Bible institute of Long Beach, gave this month's Bible story. Plans were made to sponsor a hobby show within the next few weeks. Mrs. Stella White was named general chairman of the affair. Plans also were made for the annual Mother-Daughter banquet wrich will be held soon.

MOVE TO MIDWAY

BARBER CITY.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Robinson, Long Beach, who recently purchased the local gas station and grocery store from Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tyler, took possession of the property this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler have returned to their former home on the Hellman ranch.

Farm Center Meetings

TUESDAY

Cypress, Magnolia and Buena Park home departments, 10 a. m., at Centralia school house. Topic: The basic dress and accessories, with members to bring needle, thread and scissors. Pot-luck luncheon at noon, with Mrs. C. M. Shear hostess. Mrs. Lester Schofield, chairman.

ALONG ORANGE COUNTY'S WATER FRONT

This week for our weather we're going to run in a couple of experts and in that way satisfy everyone, for it's generally agreed that weather experts can't agree, and if you want it to rain, we'll arrange a forecast for you. And if you're hoping for fair weather, with a dash of nice white clouds thrown in, our other weather man will probably satisfy.

But if they both agree, bet the other way!

Oscar Glotz, who picks long shots, whether they're horses, boats or weather, decided to stake his reputation on fair weather for tomorrow. "Zephyrs, and I don't mean Lincolns, either, should waft, but there won't be any rain," he predicted this morning. "Leave your raincoats at home, because Old Oscar knows his weather."

On the other hand is William Frederick Blunderbuss, the gentleman over there with the horn-rimmed glasses. William Frederick, as you can tell by his appearance, doesn't take any chances. He bets the favorite—that is, he would if he had nerve enough to bet!

"According to the latest advices from our weather prognosticators," William Frederick pointed out today, "a storm of no mean proportions should arrive some time today. In view of these facts, and because I rely greatly upon my grandfather's rheumatism, which is bothering him greatly this morning, I will predict decidedly unsettled weather conditions tonight and tomorrow."

* * *

So there you are—take your choice, and whatever happens isn't the fault of this department.

* * *

The tide situation doesn't look so hot for surf fishing or boat launching. A couple of fair-to-middlin' highs at 4:52 a. m. and 6:42 p. m., but who wants to go fishing or launching at those hours this chilly weather? Only one low tide on the list—that at 12:08 p. m.

* * *

Which brings, inevitably, the subject of fishing, about which there is much to say.

Darrel King, viking of the Valencia III, claims that within a few days things're going to be popping in the fishing line. And that isn't a pun, either.

In spite of muddy water, which in some places reaches a quarter-mile out from land, bass and halibut fishing has been better than fair, according to Darrel's henchmen, who run the boats. Halibut aren't exactly what you'd call plentiful yet, but the ones they do catch are veritable grandfathers of the flounder tribe.

One boatman bashfully admitted he'd snaked in one that weighed 38 pounds this week. Others weighed 32, 35 and 33 pounds, and we don't mean boatmen! That, my friends, is halibut fishing! Quite a few bass also were caught, fair sized ones, too, according to reports.

And, of all things, the barracuda are waiting around, getting ready for the starting signal. Live bait boats report several strikes from the snakes, but none caught yet, probably because of large bait. Capt. Jess Skeen, who knows about everything about fishing, says that it'll only be a couple of days, if we have fair weather, and then the long, slim fish will be taking everything in sight. Ready?

* * *

And here's a little fish story. Friday afternoon, this department, man and boy, was standing on a landing at Heinz Kaiser's Bay Shore camp on the upper bay.

Three men buzzed in to shore—outboard motor. And a small boat, of course. They admitted the weather was slightly colder than they liked and that fishing had been better, and then started unloading one of the best messes of fish from that little boat that we've seen for a long time.

A couple of spotfin croaker the like of which we haven't seen since the year of the big flood. One must have weighed all of eight pounds! Bass? Yeah, plenty of bass. Fourteen of 'em, smallish calicoes. Two big yellowfin croaker—enough for any man's meal, right there. And two fair sized halibut, couple of pounds apiece.

Now is that a mess of fish, or is it a mess of fish? They all were caught in a few hours in the upper bay. Clams for bait. And it wasn't just a fluke, either. The day before those three men caught a larger number—and larger fish, too.

* * *

If anyone reads this, Heinz Kaiser should rent every boat he has tomorrow!

* * *

Another waterfront opening now news was the new shop of Fred Storey's Balboa Marine Hardware company. In a new building adjoining the old location at Balboa's business center has plenty of display space, being built with its longest side facing the street.

* * *

Balboa Sports Shop, last year on the corner, was to take over the vacated marine hardware location, allowing the cafe around the corner to expand its quarters.

* * *

Radio broadcasts of the growing fame of Newport Bay boat builders was the scheme brought to the attention of many here this week by a Los Angeles station (Armstrong of the Times). Regular weekly programs were suggested.

* * *

Fred Crozier should be hustling business for his Elco cruiser agency soon. He has been waiting for the season to be well underway, he said, before stirring his somewhat leisurely person. Besides, he added, upsets back East have delayed shipments of boats to the coast.

* * *

One afternoon Harbormaster Tommie Bouchey had his crew stripping signs of the old frame building that used to be his office, and the next afternoon the building was gone, vanished from the pier. Just that speedily are things happening around the Washington street pier at Balboa, dressing up the surroundings to make a fit setting for the new three-story harbormaster's office.

* * *

Don't hesitate to ask for a sailing lesson when on a rentboat float. The best skippers on the bay are ready and willing and right there to give a lesson free. They are the youngsters you see lounging around. No regular school of sailing has ever been needed on the bay with those young freebooters on the job. They are the best in the business, and do it for the fun of it.

* * *

"Product of British India" said the stenciled marking on a bale of fishing poles outside the tackle shop facing the Newport pier. Did you know that?

Calcutta bamboo, probably, which is a very complicated wood for a fishing pole. It seems the Indians—or are they Calcutters?—anyway, they bury the wood for some time before it's seasoned and ready to go. Makes good poles, too!

* * *

"Nellie D." got away from her mooring during a small blow, and everybody on the bay rushed to the rescue. The little power boat belongs to Capt. J. A. Ricker who, it seems, can have anything he wants down on the waterfront.

Eighty and more years of age, he has lived at Balboa for 20 or more, they say, and has more reasons for being famous than half the stuffed-shirts that get their names in headlines, according to his admirers.

His copyrighted Ricker Sea Chart has never been equalled, they would have you know, and further than that, even government navigation officials have gone out of their way to compliment him. With it, you set a pointer on your compass direction, and there you have the spot located where you are at sea, it was understood—but vaguely, it must be admitted, being but a lubber.

Capt. Ricker has served the government, received commissions from Presidents as far back as Garfield, was one of the first white men to do the Colorado river gorge in a canoe. He was a pal of Buffalo Bill, and himself such a crack shot that Colts presented him with a special gold-sighted firearm of their manufacture.

He has—but enough. The man has lived many booksful.

* * *

Stock boat sales this week were mainly those made at the Los Angeles boat show, and had not been quite concluded. Many deals however were spoken of as in the closing stages.

* * *

Selling boats is no trick, according to Broker Bob Boyd. The trick is to get the boats to sell. That is, sufficient lists to give the boat-minded man his choice.

"You can't sell him anything," Boyd insists. "He has sold himself long before he gets into a broker's office. What he wants when he arrives there is to see the boat he has pictured in his mind all ready in the water for him to take away.

"That's the biggest part of a broker's job, building up his listings so that he can have that particular boat right there. When a man wants a boat, he wants the boat he wants, and that's all there is to it."

He had a listing, by the way, that caught the eye: a 28-foot Stone yawl "ready for a Honolulu run.' Owned by a Pomona college professor, the craft was on the market, Boyd said, because the prof. was returning to his home in Sweden.

* * *

Although they seemed worse, 16-mile winds were about tops for the blows this week. Swinging from southeast to west, they were no cause for worry for boatmen, but a source of fun for a number of hardy Star and Snowbird skippers. Sailing in the rain on Newport Bay has its regular enthusiasts.

* * *

Easter bonnets, though, may not fare so well, if the weather prediction of a big blow Sunday proves worth the paper it was printed on.

Pier fishermen woke up to muddy water again following the heavy inland rains. A regular river of mud flowed again from the outlet of the Santa Ana down past the pier and far southeast toward Laguna. Few were the lines dropped into its choppy wake. Debris again littered the beach as orchard cuttings and uprooted dead trees came piling in through the surf.

* * *

Moving from the waterfront soon will be Paul Palmer and his Lido Isle sales office now occupying part of the Lido Isle clubhouse on the bayfront.

Lido sales agency's new office building at the entrance of the isle, adjoining the highway into Newport, was in the hands of finish carpenters this week.

No real estate shack either is the new place. It is a real establishment, stucco with Spanish red clay tile roof, the cost estimated as equal to that of a fair-sized home.

* * *

Newport Bay boatbuilders already have received orders for new craft as result of the boat show in Los Angeles this week. Those who exhibited at the show were reported well pleased with the results, and exhibit visitors pleased with what this pleasure port had to offer in the way of speedy sailing craft and power cruisers.

Molds for boats ordered of Newport Bay builders at the show already were being made in some of the shops here.

* * *

The big rush is on. Boat builders have all they can handle in some cases. Others figure they have room for very few more orders if deliveries are demanded this season.

* * *

Don Douglas says other than a few Stars to be shipped to Chicago and New York, a fleet of Snowbirds, some flatties and a few snipe, he hasn't a thing to do.

* * *

There's going to be another prize boat in frame in Tom Dittmar's shop before long, rumor insists. The builder of the Yucca, however, has nothing to say.

* * *

And that, having used up half of the page, should be that!

The conductor of this here now department, however, is getting a bit worried. Usually, if any part of the paper is useful to someone, or if a reader thinks it should appear every Saturday, or that it should be tossed into the ashcan, they write a letter to the editor.

"Kind Sir," it should read, "I like —— or dislike —— (check proper square) that coastline business in The Journal. The only manner in which it could be improved would be to have whoever sends in the material take a boat ride at least twice a week." (That last sentence is imperative!)

FULL WEEK FOR LUTHERANS

ORANGE.—Holy week services have been planned in local Lutheran churches, beginning Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, when an adult membership class will be held in St. John's church.

On Maundy Thursday, a German communion service will be held at 9:30 a. m., conducted by the Rev. A. C. Bode, with the English communion service following at 7:30 p. m., conducted by the Rev. Kenneth Ahl.

Good Friday services will be held at 9:30 o'clock in German, and at 11 a. m. in English. The Rev. Mr. Ahl will conduct the former, and the Rev. Mr. Bode the latter service.

In keeping with accepted Lutheran custom, St. Paul's Lutheran church, Olive, will observe Holy week with two special services. An English service will be held Maundy Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The pastor will read the Passion History of the Savior, and the congregation will sing. The German service will be held Good Friday morning at 10 o'clock, the pastor preaching on the words of John the Baptist, "Behold the Lamb of God Which Taketh Away the Sin of the World."

ORANGE.—The choir of the Presbyterian church will give an evening of music Sunday at 7:30 o'clock, commemorating the triumphal entry of the first Palm Sunday.

Granier's "Hosanna" will be played as an organ solo by the director and organist, Percy Green. The chorus, "Ride On In Majesty" will follow. Soloists are Mrs. Paul Clark, Mrs. Carl Pister and Tom Richardson. Wilbur Carpenter, Jo Green, Myrtle Livernash and Henrietta Settle will be heard in quartet and duet numbers.

DESK SERGEANT IS MARRIED

ORANGE.—Miss Billie L. Muffleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Muffleman, 240 North Shaffer street, was married to Frank Edward Shivers of San Diego Thursday afternoon at the Mission Inn, Riverside. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. F. E. Shivers, Mississippi.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Hugo Gihring, assistant pastor of the First Lutheran church, Long Beach, before relatives and close friends of couple. Attendants were Miss Irena Muffleman, sister of bride, and Alfred H. Thorne, San Diego, who served as best man.

A buffet supper was served to the family and wedding party at the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds left later in the evening for their new home in East San Diego.

Mrs. Shivers attended school at the St. John's Day school and was graduated from Orange Union High school. For the past three years she has been desk sergeant at the local police headquarters. The bridegroom is a radioman at the Naval Air Station, San Diego.

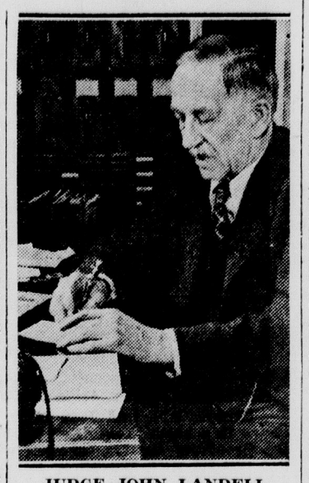

Slate Concert At H. B. Church

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — A sacred concert will be presented Sunday evening at the Methodist church by the chorus of the Federal Music project with Dudley Page Harper, conductor.

The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

MAN of the WEEK

Step right up and meet Orange county's Man of the Week. He's been selected to appear here because of his interest in his community and because friends claim he's a real fellow. Here he is!

JUDGE JOHN LANDELL

Rating top honors as one of the oldest, if not the very oldest law enforcement officers in number of years served in Southern California, and a deputy sheriff in San Juan Capistrano before there was any Orange county, Judge John Landell is this week's Man of the Week.

Judge Landell was a deputy sheriff in Los Angeles county as early as 1888. In 1889 he was named alcalde of the pueblo of San Juan Capistrano. Since that year he has dispensed justice in his little courtroom and the wisdom of his decisions is evidenced in the smiles with which residents greet him. He's "tops" in Capistrano.

Possessor of a remarkably keen memory, Judge Landell recalls many interesting exploits of Capistrano's early days. He has rubbed elbows with historical characters and loves to tell of early-day exploits of well known county citizens in the adventurous pioneering days.

He can be the stern judge, but a lively twinkle in his eye is liable to relieve even the most solemn moments. He likes folks and understands their problems. He knows character.

Which is probably why he has been judge in San Juan Capistrano for the past 38 years.

PLAYERS FROM HOLLYWOOD TO APPEAR AT LAGUNA

LAGUNA BEACH. — Staging the comedy "Susanne," the Ben Bard Players come to Laguna after a long run in Hollywood to put on a single performance at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the high school auditorium.

Included in the cast is Dickie Moore, who due to her performance in this comedy was signed up by RKO studios, and Rina Revel, sister of Harry Revel of the song wriitng team of Gordon and Revel.

In the cast are Jeanette Burke, Jack Carson, Richard Paxton, Huntley Robertson, Greta Phillips, Betty Lipper, Dickie Moore, Eva McVeagh, Bobra McHenry, Julian Madison, Doctor Pennock, Alan Ladd, Virginia Eberling and Roger Hand.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Harry Gordon Martin, Jean Marly, Mrs. W. A. Wolf, Annete Arnold, Mrs. Don Manuel Olazabal, Lou Merritt and Mary Rohn Chapin. Usherettes appointed are Andre Merritt, Blanche Montgomery, Mary Jane Rohn, Polly Morss, Phyllis Jones and Billy McCune.

Marionette Show, Exhibit Feature P.-T. A. Meet

OLIVE. — Mrs. Irene Stewart, special art teacher at Olive and Peralta schools, directed a clever marionette show at a meeting of the Olive P.-T. A. recently. Pupils operated the tiny dolls, recited the dialogue and sang.

The production was entitled, "General Bellows Amateur Contest." The following pupils took part: Dick Ristow, announcer; Otis Feemster, Barbara McClintock, Mary Fairbairn, Flora Fairbairn, Claude Lewellen, Nicasio Cruz, Pete Araygo, Kioyko Kamri, Isabelle Mendoza, Cecilia Delgado, Frank Buzo, Bobby Fellows, Paul Hager, Buster Gelker, Werner Franz, Charlotte Delotta, Lucille Rowland and Carol Kuyper.

Claude Lewellen was stage manager; assistant manager, Thomas Delgado; sound technician, Tommie Roberts; scenery, Paul Hager; assistant, Buster Gelker, and electrician, Max Greiner.

A display of primary arts and crafts was shown under the direction of Mrs. C. R. Pefley, the primary teacher; intermediate and senior pupils showed their work in the main auditorium of the school, and P.-T. A. mothers exhibited art, handcraft and needlework.

THE PURPLE ARROW

By MILDRED SNOW GLEASON

(Copyright, 1937, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

CHAPTER XXXVI

For a moment, Fran could only stare in amazement at the man who had come forward.

"Professor Richardson!" she exclaimed.

He bowed. "Alias the Purple Arrow. I am indeed relieved that my capable lieutenant, who himself only recently discovered my identity, has succeeded in finding you." He smiled at Ward, who was grinning. Then, he caught sight of Joe in the corner. "Ah, and I see the culprit has been captured. Good! We'll see that he's taken straight down the mountain and clapped into jail. He has a lot to answer for."

The professor turned to the group of police officers who had come with him, and spoke a few words. They hauled Joe out of his corner and led him out.

"But—" Fran began.

"Wait, darling," said Ward. "The professor will explain later. It's a long story. Right now, I think we'd better get started back to the pension—if you feel up to the trip now."

"All right," Fran agreed, though thoroughly bewildered. "Let's go!"

Day was breaking as they left the shack and started their downward journey. Ward took Fran's arm, and the professor trudged along behind them. Fran was silent for a while, but finally, could control her curiosity no longer.

"Ward," she said, "when did you guess he was the Purple Arrow?" She smiled back at the professor, who returned her smile.

"The night he emphatically denied having written the warning to you," Ward answered. "I knew he had written it but, just as I was going to stick to my point, I remembered where I had heard his voice before. Over the phone in New York when the Purple Arrow hired me. I decided to say nothing, because it was his business if he wanted to keep his identity still a secret. I've discovered that he dotes on mystery." He turned and grinned at the professor. "I have resigned from your employ, sir, because I have decided to marry, and my future wife doesn't care for mysteries."

"Never, never again, I hope!" Fran said fervently.

"You must forgive me, my dear," the professor said penitently, "for handling all this in such a mysterious way, but it seemed the best way to achieve my ends."

Fran stopped suddenly and sat down. "I've got to rest a moment," she said. As Ward and the professor sat down beside her, she turned and faced the older man squarely.

"Who are you and why have you done all this?" she asked quietly.

The professor took her hand. "I am your uncle, Frances — your mother's brother."

Fran stared at him. "But—but Joe told me—"

"That I had died in the South American jungle," he finished for her. "It's true that I went on an expedition and was reported to have lost my life. A body had been found and mistakenly identified as mine. When I came back to civilization a year, I was dumbfounded to find that I had been legally dead for a year.

"Meanwhile, my attorneys in New York had been unsuccessfully attempting to locate you and Jack, to whom I had willed my fortune. They had instructions, in case of my death, to communicate with the Jillups, for Jillup had previously indicated to me, several years ago, that he knew where you and Jack were. He had tried to make me pay for the information, but I had refused because I thought that, in time, I would find you myself."

"When, however, I learned that, after my lawyers had informed Jillup of the fortune you had supposedly inherited, he had claimed complete ignorance of your whereabouts, I somehow became suspicious and decided to investigate. For this reason, I remained legally 'dead,' and took the new name of Richardson. I hired Mr. Petersen here to do the actual investigating while I remained in the background.

"I followed him to Europe and, when he came to Bucharest to look up Jack, I came too, though he did not know it and did not meet me until we met at the pension. I spent most of my time in Bucharest, waiting for Jillup to send you there. When he didn't, I engineered your escape. Then, after Jack's tragic death, I followed you out to the pension."

"But why didn't you come out into the open as soon as you found I was with the Jillups?" Fran asked. "Why didn't you come and take me away? And why, after I came to Bucharest, and then here, didn't you reveal yourself to me?"

"Because I was determined that the Jillups should not escape justice for the scheme they had concocted to defraud you, and in order to achieve this end, I had to keep my identity hidden until I had more concrete evidence against them. I wanted to give them plenty of rope with which to hang themselves.

"However, I was quite unprepared for poor Jack's death. I did not know that that was part of their scheme. I thought they were simply trying to get hold of your share of the fortune, not all of it. If I had known what they were scheming against Jack, I would have come out into the open sooner.

"Instead, I was waiting to see what the Jillups would do after I maneuvered your escape from them. They did exactly what I expected — sent Joe after you. Then, at the pension, I still remained incognito because I wanted Joe to be driven to taking some definite action that would incriminate him. Meanwhile, I knew that no real harm would come to you, because the Jillup's scheme was dependent on your remaining alive.

"I never thought, though, that there would be so much danger to others. I was shocked when Joe Jillup killed his poor friend Slacks—as he obviously did—but I suppose I shouldn't blame myself for that. After all, I couldn't foresee that the two would have a disagreement that would end fatally. I do blame myself for the attack on Mr. Petersen, and felt dreadfully responsible, but he had taken the job with the understanding that it involved risk, and once the thing was started, there seemed nothing to do but carry on to the end." He sighed. "Well, we have plenty of evidence against Joe and his father now."

"Why," asked Fran, "did you choose the alias, The Purple Arrow?"

"Because your mother and father, during their courtship, had used the sign of the purple arrow in exchanging secret notes. I remembered that. In any case, it accomplished one thing—it thoroughly frightened the Jillups, who thought I must be a dangerous criminal. However, I've now had enough of—er—mystery and adventure to last me the rest of my life."

They were all silent for a while. The sun had risen and was hovering above the horizon. Finally, the professor stood up.

"We'd better be getting on," he said. He turned to Fran and Ward with a benevolent smile. "But in my day, the young hero would already be kissing his future bride."

"Shall we satisfy his romantic soul, Fran?" Ward asked, grinning.

The professor turned his back.

PAT O'BRIEN STARS IN 'GREAT O'MALLEY' AT BROADWAY TODAY

BOGART ALSO STARRED IN PICTURE

Program Includes 'Her Husband's Secretary' and G-Man Short

A triple program with three outstanding screen offerings comes to the Broadway theater today when Pat O'Brien's latest, "The Great O'Malley," and "Her Husband's Secretary" share the feature picture honors with the latest of the "Crime Does Not Pay" series, "Tortune Money."

One of those intensely human and altogether believable stories is the O'Brien picture, "The Great O'Malley." Humphrey Bogart, star of the "Black Legion," shares stellar honors with the Irish star.

It's a tale of conflict between O'Brien, as a hardboiled cop, and Bogart, as a bad man. Pat lives by his rule book, and doesn't let his heart sway him toward sympathy with offenders of the law. The rule book says that a cart should carry not more than two bells, so he arrests a peddler whose cart carries six. Awnings should not extend more than six feet beyond the building line, says the book, so the cop arrests a tailor whose awning comes out seven feet.

When the excess zeal brings ridicule of the force from the newspapers, he's transferred to a school crossing as punishment. There his heart begins to be touched, first by a little lame pupil, played by Sybil Jason, and then by her teacher, Ann Sheridan.

O'Malley still goes by the book, however. He causes the arrest and imprisonment, ignorant of the man's identity, of Humphrey Bogart, the girl's father. And thus he earns the scorn of the child's mother and the girl he has learned to love. Regret and an increasing regard for all humanity begin to soften the heart of the cop. He makes what amends he can, has a specialist cure the lameness of little Sybil; gets a parole and a job for Bogart, who in turn saves O'Malley's life.

With Jean Muir, Beverly Roberts and Warren Hull in the leading roles, "Her Husband's Secretary" is a new type of movie triangle. It's a fast moving picture with a metropolitan city and the Maine woods serving as backgrounds.

'OUTCAST' WILL SHOW TUESDAY

A stirring drama of a woman's lust for vengeance and the fury of a mob whipped into frenzy by small town bigotry, brings Warren William to the West Coast screen Tuesday in "Outcast" on an interesting program of screen entertainment that has the picture, "Girl Overboard," on the same bill.

"Outcast" is the story of a physician who is hounded from city to city by Karen Morley who believes William guilty of murder. She catches up with him in a small mid-western town. There, through the intercession of Lewis Stone, she discovers his innocence and falls in love with him, but not before she has betrayed him to a mob.

Set against the spectacular background of a ship fire at sea, "Girl Overboard" is a fast moving picture of a girl accused unjustly of murder. Gloria Stuart has the leading feminine role, and Walter Pidgeon supplies the male lead.

Others in the cast include the child actor, Billy Burrud, Hobart Cavanaugh, Sidney Blackmer, Jack Smart, Charlotte Wynters and Russell Hicks.

New Anti-Crime Short Subject On Broadway Bill

In their fight to halt the march of crime, the G-men have welcomed motion pictures as a valuable ally. Crime no longer marches, it limps, and the screen is one obstacle on which it stubbed its toe. Recognition of the screen's anti-crime drive has been granted by John Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation.

"Motion pictures properly presented are among the major mediums for spreading the message that crime does not pay," declared Hoover after viewing two reel M-G-M shorts in the "Crime Does Not Pay" series.

The latest of this series is "Torture Money" in which one of the most vicious rackets practiced in modern organized crime is exposed. The picture reveals the inside on the fake auto accident racket. It shows how one investigator worked single-handed to uncover a big city criminal ring that staged fake accidents in order to collect insurance claims.

The picture comes to the Broadway theater today as an added attraction on a double feature program.

MOEUR RITES HELD

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Affairs of state was halted in Arizona yesterday while sorrowing friends buried Dr. Benjamin Baker Moeur, 67, country physician and statesman, who stepped down from the governor's office only two and one-half months ago. Dr. Moeur died Tuesday.

Seen in Feature at Broadway

Warren Hull and Jean Muir, with Beverly Roberts, are shown above in a scene from "Her Husband's Secretary," starting today at the Broadway theater, together with "The Great O'Malley," starring Pat O'Brien with Humphrey Bogart, Sylvia Jason and Ann Sheridan. "Torture Money," the latest of the "Crime Does Not Pay" series, is the added attraction.

Stars of 'More Than a Secretary'

Above are pictured Lionel Stander, Jean Arthur and George Brent, who have the leading roles in "More Than a Secretary," which comes to Walker's theater Sunday for an engagement of three days.

TWO MUSICAL COMEDIES AT BROADWAY ON WEDNESDAY

A double bill with the surprise hit of the new movie season, "When Love Is Young," and the Ruby Keeler film, "Ready, Willing and Able," comes to the Broadway theater next Wednesday on a program that presents a variety of exceptional entertainment.

Virginia Bruce stars in "When Love Is Young," musical film which tops the twin program. Miss Bruce's role is that of an "ugly-Duckling" town girl who tries to crash Broadway. Ably aided by a high-powered press agent, the ambitious actress gets into an hilarious mixup of musical trouble. Kent Taylor portrays the role of the press agent and Walter Brennan, academy award winner, supplies comedy. A recent visitor to Santa Ana, Jean Rogers, makes her debut in this. Sterling Holloway, lanky comic who has been missed from the screen of late, makes a comeback in a featured role.

"Ready, Willing and Able," a comedy with music that stars Ruby Keeler, is from the Richard Macaulay story by the same name. Co-starred with Miss Keeler is Lee Dixon, young eccentric dancer, Louise Fazenda is also seen in a role well fitted for her talents as a comedienne, Winifred Shaw is cast as a British musical comedy star. Others in the cast are Allen Jenkins, Carol Hughes, Hugh O'Connell, Teddy Hart, Ross Alexander, E. E. Clive and Jane Wyman.

Former Toast of Broadway Escapes Jail for Theft

LOS ANGELES (AP).—A rest home instead of a jail cell has been provided today for Theodora Marcone, one-time toast of Broadway and widow of an Italian nobleman.

The 51-year-old woman, to whom the World war brought ruin, last week pleaded guilty to stealing two jars of jam and a knife, valued at $2.50.

Probation officers said today the county had furnished $200 for her six months rehabilitation at the Minnie Barton home. Examining physicians reported she is suffering from head injuries she sustained when her Italian castle was bombed by air raiders and she was buried beneath the debris.

Known as Theo Carew, she was leading woman for John Drew and Augustin Daly in New York plays after the turn of the century, probation records show. She came to Hollywood to play in D. W. Griffith's first feature length movies with Henry B. Walthall, the Gish and Marsh sisters.

When the Marchese di Marcone paid a visit to Southern California in 1910, he met, wooed and married her. An aviator himself, he taught her to fly and she participated in the first women's air races in Paris. The Marchese was killed in the war and her estates destroyed.

Soviet Is Angry With Eisenstein

MOSCOW (AP).—Sergius M. Eisenstein, stormy petrel among film directors with artistic views of his own, fell into serious difficulties with his government today.

Eisenstein, who has been in Hollywood and has the title of Honored Worker in Soviet Art, was accused of portraying the Communist revolution unfavorably and of picturing its opponents sympathetically in a picture, "Bezhin Lug," which he directed. The picture is supposed to depict the class struggle during collectivization of Soviet farms.

Boy Gets $1375 Injury Payment

For injuries he suffered Nov. 23 when he was struck by an auto while on the Santiago creek bridge on North Main street, 7-year-old Kenneth Pannell yesterday was paid $1375.

Superior Judge G. K. Scovel yesterday authorized Kenneth's father, C. M. Pannell, to accept that amount from Mr. and Mrs. William Tell Schenk in settlement of Kenneth's claims.

Gets 4 Months on Probation Slip Up

Admitting to Superior Judge James L. Allen that he had violated terms of probation extended in 1934 on a drunken driving charge, Julio Aparicio yesterday was sentenced to four months in jail.

Judge Allen continued probation with the jail sentence as one of its conditions.

JEAN ARTHUR IN FILM AT WALKER'S

Another Columbia hit, "More Than a Secretary," heads the big double bill that opens Sunday at Walker's theater, the second feature being "Bulldog Drummond Escapes."

Jean Arthur, whose star in the film firmament has grown to huge proportions during the past year, is starring in "More Than a Secretary," with George Brent in the leading male role.

The story concerns the prim proprietress of a secretarial school whose business has robbed her of romance. She is forced to accept a position as private secretary to the editor of a health magazine, who also has lost a romantic touch.

To put the magazine on its feet, the secretary orders radical changes that make the editor irate and he discharges her, but is forced to re-employ her because her methods double the sales volume of his magazine and products.

Finding herself in love with the editor when she sees a blonde young thing twine the editor around her finger, the secretary decides to become a charmer herself and win her boss.

With Miss Arthur and Brent in the cast are Lionel Stander, Ruth Donnelly, Reginald Denny and Dorothy Kent.

Ray Milland and Heather Angel are the stars of "Bulldog Drummond Escapes," another in the series of stories by McNeile and Fairlie built around the fictitious soldier of fortune.

In this picture Drummond solves two murders and a kidnaping, and shows up a counterfeit ring.

Others in the cast are the late Sir Guy Standing, Porter Hall, Reginald Denny, E. E. Clive, Fay Holden and Walter Kingsford.

'7TH HEAVEN' TO OPEN EASTER

Although it will take an hour an a half to show "Seventh Heaven" on the screen when it opens at the Broadway theater Easter day, in the starring picture of Hollywood's two sensational new stars, James Stewart and Simone Simon, there is represented in its final screen form more than four years of research and editing.

Austin Strong, from whose original story the screen version was made, first planned it as a one-act play, a comedy, dealing with the antics of a taxicab driver he encountered in Paris during the World war. When he took it to John Golden, New York producer, the producer suggested that he expand his theme to a three-act serious drama.

Subordinating the comic characters, and introducing deep emotional emphasis, Strong rewrote the play twice before it reached Broadway in 1922.

With the decision to make "Seventh Heaven" as a talking picture, there began a little over a year ago another large scale writing project with Melville Baker, ace Hollywood scenarist, assigned to the task of adaption. The script completed, Darryl Zanuck began selecting the cast, assigning the role of Diane to Simone Simon. James Stewart was borrowed from M-G-M for the role of Chico, and Jean Hersholt, Gale Sondergaad, Gregory Ratoff, John Qualen, J. Edward Bromberg and Mady Christians were cast in featured roles.

To direct "Seventh Heaven," Zanuck selected Henry King, academy prize winner who had just completed another outstanding film that will show here soon, "Lloyd's of London."

Jaysee, Chaffey Debaters Tied

Santa Ana and Pomona Junior college debating teams today were tied for the Southern California championship as the result of a victory Thursday by Pomona over Chaffey Junior college.

Had Pomona lost, Santa Ana would have become the champion with five victories and one defeat.

Pomona and Santa Ana will contest for first place honors probably on April 8 at Pomona, with Cordon Bishop and Al Pickhardt of Santa Ana holding the affirmative of the question, "Resolved: That Congress should be empowered to fix maximum hours and minimum wages for industry."

HIT AT WEST COAST ENDS ON MONDAY

While the public seldom realizes it, and while the player only occasionally does, remarkable changes take place in the personalities and physical measurements of motion picture favorites.

Carole Lombard, who co-stars with Fred MacMurray in the romance with music now screening at the West Coast theater, says that since her advent into pictures several years ago, she has been literally "three different persons." Miss Lombard confessed that during the past 10 years of motion picture work she has had several remarkable changes of personality, most of them deliberate.

"My greatest change recently," she declared, 'is a swing from sophisticated roles into comedies. As a sophisticated woman I found I could look very knowing and not have to be very emotional, which was my way of covering up the fact that I couldn't act very well. The new Lombard is a change for the better, I think, at least I am myself. I am very much th same woman in 'Swing High, wing Low,' touched off with a t of dramatic acting.'

The picture, "Swing High, Swing Low," is showing now at the West Coast, and in it Miss Lombard not only takes on a change in personality, but her physical appearance alters. Always a glamorous, well dressed woman on and off the screen, she is seen here in the garb of a honky-tonk cabaret entertainer.

The story concerns her being left in Panama and meeting MacMurray, an ex-soldier and irresponsible trumpet player. She makes him a sensational star only to be deserted as his popularity grows. Fame has gone to MacMurray's head and it tosses him in the gutter from whence he came. Only with her forgiveness is he able to make good again.

Dorothy Lamour, who made such a hit in her first picture, "Jungle Princess," handles the part of the "other woman." Charles Butterworth and Jean Dixon combine in offering the lighter moments.

"Give Me Liberty," the natural color featurette that won the Academy award for the best short of 1936, Pete Smith's hilarious "Gilding the Lily," a new issue of Screen Snapshots, and World News events are the added attractions.

March of Time On Walker's Bill Tomorrow

As an added attraction on Walker's theater big bill bill starting Sunday, the new March of Time is entertaining and instructive.

In addition to a dramatic candid camera study of the momentous rise to world importance of Kemal Ataturk, Turkey's self-made president and dictator, there is a thought-provoking episode entitled "Enemies of Alcohol" which is a startling survey of the liquor problem three years after repeal.

The third subject is a tuneful treatment of the national craze for "swing music," starring some of the best bands in the country, including the Original Dixieland Jazz Band, originators of "swing" more than 20 years ago.

WARSHIP TO VISIT

TOKYO. (AP) — To emphasize closer relations between Germany and Japan since conclusion of their anti-Communist pact last November, Japan's first class cruiser Ashigara will visit Germany.

It will be the first time in 30 years that a Japanese warship has appeared in German waters.

Stars of 'Swing High, Swing Low'

Fred MacMurray and Carole Lombard are shown above in their second co-starring roles in "Swing High, Swing Low," now showing at the West Coast theater.

'Jungle Princess' Comes to State

Above is pictured Dorothy Lamour and her tiger companion in "The Jungle Princess," which comes to the State theater Sunday for an engagement of three days.

Carter Must Pay $60 a Month to Avoid Prison

A long term in San Quentin penitentiary today hangs over the head of George U. Carter, admitted bad check artist.

It will hang over his head for five years, as a constant threat lest he should forget his promise made to Superior Judge James L. Allen yesterday to pay $60 per month to repay victims to whom he admittedly issued some $1200 in bad checks.

Judge Allen denied probation to Carter and sentenced him to San Quentin, where his term would run from one to 14 years. But Judge Allen granted a five-year stay of execution on condition of the $60 per month payments.

Carter pleaded guilty two months ago, but his probation hearing had been continued from week to week. Mrs. Nora Allen, county probation officer, had recommended against leniency.

Lions to Attend Church in Body

Lions club members will go to church in a group tomorrow night.

The Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, will conduct a special evening service at 7:30 p. m., to which members of the club have been especially invited. They will sit in a special section.

JUNGLE LOVE PICTURE DUE AT STATE

A beautiful girl makes her screen debut in "The Jungle Princess," coming Sunday to the State theater for an engagement of three days. She is Dorothy Lamour, star of the production.

The story is that of a girl, orphaned while a child, who wanders into the jungle and grows up with a tiger cub and ape in a cave. An explorer is attacked by the tiger, and rescued by the girl, with whom he falls in love.

Later they return to a native village where the explorer has his headquarters, but the explorer's fiancee becomes jealous and tells the natives the girl is a witch. In the ensuing melee, the girl's tiger is killed, but her friends, the apes, come to her rescue, and she and her lover escape.

In the cast with Miss Lamour are Ray Milland, Akim, Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, Molly Lamont, Mala and Hugh Buckler.

The other feature on the bill at the State is "Babes in Toyland," starring Laurel and Hardy.

This delightful comedy is built around Victor Herbert's immortal "March of the Toys" and "Castles in Spain," and includes in the cast such players as Charlotte Henry, Henry Kleinbach, Felix Knight, Florence Roberts, William Buress and Virginia Karns.

An added attraction is chapter No. 8 of "Phantom Rider," starring Buck Jones.

Death Claims Impersonator

NEWARK, N. J. (AP).—Charles Heywood, 89, female impersonator who lost and found his soprano voice a half century ago, is dead here.

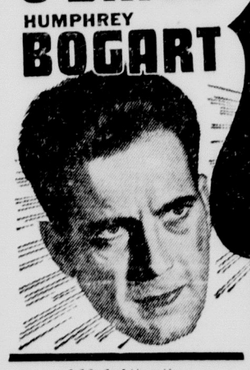

Familiar to theater-goers of the nineteenth and early twentieth century as "the Great Heywood," he imitated Jenny Lind, Sarah Bernhardt and other stars of other generations. He retired 25 years ago.

June Bride-to-be Honored This Afternoon at a Luncheon in the Town House

Betrothal of Nan Mead Told At Junior Ebell Party

When an entrancing bridal party made its way across the stage of Junior Ebell's annual spring fashion show this afternoon, a most novel and thrilling event was scheduled to occur, for Miss Nan Mead had chosen this moment to reveal the news of her engagement to Frank Curran, jr., of Santa Ana. It was particularly appropriate that Miss Mead should choose the Junior Ebell party for her announcement, for she served as president of the club just last year and the spring fashion show then was the climax of her twelve months' leadership. For this reason, and because all her intimate friends are in the organization, she permitted Mrs. George Hugh Walker, general chairman of the party, to dedicate the bridal party display to her.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Mead of 2119 North Main street, had last evening made formal announcement of the impending nuptials to a few family friends.

The popular bride-elect is a charter member of Ebell club and is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles. Mr. Curran is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curran of 2003 Victoria Drive, and is a graduate of Loyola University. He is associated with his father in the Curran Lumber company here.

Their wedding will occur sometime in the autumn, Miss Mead said today.

Honeymoon At Desert Resort

Orange blossoms from the wreath of artificial flowers which her grandmother, Mrs. R. E. Rousseau, had worn in her wedding many years ago formed little clusters at either side of the Juliet cap of tiny pearls worn last night by Miss Catherine E. Rousseau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rousseau of 1221 South Main street, Santa Ana, when she became the bride of Howard M. Paul, son of Mrs. Ada R. Paul of 1028 West Fourth street.

Choosing this bit of sentiment to carry out the "something old" of the wedding tradition, the bride presented a lovely picture in the gown of white chiffon velvet which her mother had made for her. Made long, with a train, a high neck, and long full sleeves caught to little bands at her wrists, the lovely simple lines of the dress were enhanced by a double veil which fell from the little cap of pearls.

Her only jewels were the double strand of pearls, with diamond clasp, and the pearl bracelet which were the bride's gift from her parents. Instead of a bouquet of flowers, the pretty bride carried the little white Bible which had been given to her when she was seven years old, and from which fell a shower of ribbons and tiny flowers. She was given in marriage by her father.

In Bridal Chapel

One hundred guests assembled in the bridal chapel of the First Methodist church at 8 o'clock last evening for the impressive rites which were solemnized by Dr. George A. Warmer, pastor of the church.

Preceding the bride up the aisle to the flower-decked altar, which was lighted by tall tapers in high standards, was Mrs. Norman P. Paul, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, who wore a gown of white satin, made with long sleeves and buttoned from neckline to hem in the back. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet made with a frill of lace in colonial manner.

Norman Paul attended his brother as best man, and Clarence A. Rousseau, jr., brother of the bride, and Harvey Bear were the ushers.

Music By Cousins

Mrs. Paul Webb was the organist, playing the wedding march and accompanying Mr. Webb in the singing of the wedding solo, "I Love You Truly." Both of the musicians are cousins of the bride's father.

A reception followed the service in the social hall at the church, which was decked with flowers of early spring, the bride's cake occupying a central position on the pretty table of white appointments. Mrs. Carl Fisher and Mrs. Harvey Bear of Santa Ana and Mrs. William Curnutt of Huntington Beach assisted at the tables, and the mothers of bride and bridegroom joined them in receiving. Mrs. Rousseau was in gold lace with a corsage of Talisman roses and the groom's mother in white with flowers in pastel shades.

For the honeymoon trip to Palm Springs, and then to Catalina on the bridegroom's boat, the bride changed to a tailored suit of green tweed with all accessories of a contrasting rust shade. On their return, they will be at home at 914 First street in Santa Ana, the bridegroom being a teacher in the local schools. The bride is in the office of the Alliance Mutual Insurance company here.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Santa Ana High school and the latter also of the University of Southern California. Both have been residents of this city for most of their lives.

The bride is a member of the Eastern Star lodge, holding the office of Adah in her chapter. Mr. Paul was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity at the university.

ENGAGEMENT TOLD TO FRIENDS

In a prettily-appointed informal bridge party Wednesday night at the Doris-Kathryn tearoom, Mrs. Albert V. Laughlin of this city announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Edna M. Laughlin, to Harold Hammarsten of Fresno State college.

A St. Patrick motif marked decorations for the party, which concluded with a refreshment course served at one long table centered with flowers and candles.

Announcement was told on a little scroll wrapped with the consolation prize which was presented to Mrs. Claude Anderson at the end of the evening's bridge play. First and second prizes went to Miss Georgie Pennock and Mrs. Charles Frazier.

The wedding will take place some time in June, according to plans revealed by the bride-to-be, who is a graduate of the local schools and an employe of the telephone company here.

Present to hear the news were the Mesdames Charles Frazier, Frank Anderson, Harold Mathews, George Blinner, Warren Sullivan, Dwight Miller, and the Misses Georgie Pennock, Lucille and Dollie Tuft, Esther Runnels, and Dorothy Rohan, all of Santa Ana; Mrs. Oscar Hammarsten of Palm Springs, sister-in-law of Miss Laughlin's fiance; Mrs. Harold Fowler, Mrs. Joe Fowler, and Mrs. Fred Phoenix of Long Beach, Mrs. George Kent of Huntington Beach, Mrs. Iva McFann of Balboa, Mrs. Claude Anderson of Costa Mesa, and Mrs. Henry Lyle of Los Angeles, and the hostess and her daughter.

FIFTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED TODAY

Congratulations and good wishes were being extended to Mr. and Mrs. L. Sedoris of R. R. 1, Santa Ana, today on the occasion of the fifty-sixth anniversary of the wedding which united them on March 20, 1881, in Kansas.

No special celebration of the event was planned, but messages of congratulation arrived throughout the day, and their two sons and daughter who live in Santa Ana were with them. The three who live here are Clive and Roy, of the home, and Mrs. H. C. Miller. Two other sons, A. R. Sedoris and V. L. Sedoris, still live in Kansas, the former in Pittsburg and the latter in Edna.

The couple also have four granddaughters and one great granddaughter in the east, and two granddaughters, two grandsons, and a great grandson and great granddaughter in Santa Ana.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sedoris had been in good health until about a year ago, since which time Mrs. Sedoris has not been as well. Both were happy today in reminiscences of their wedding more than half a century ago, and many friends joined in congratulating them.

MOTHER ARRIVES FROM NEW YORK

G. L. Straub of the Grand Central apartments went to San Diego yesterday to meet his mother, Mrs. Minna Straub of Yonkers, N. Y., who was arriving aboard the S. S. California after a trip from the east coast through the Panama canal.

This is Mrs. Straub's first trip to California, and she plans to spend the summer with her son, who is a civil engineer with the department of agriculture.

SHRINE DRILL TEAM

Damascus White Shrine drill team is to have a special business meeting Tuesday at 9 a. m. in the Masonic temple.

The Week Belongs to These Five Smiling Faces

Smiling through the busy days of these first weeks of spring have been five attractive young matrons and misses around whom is centering much of the gaiety of the new season. At upper left is Miss Nan Mead, junior past president of Junior Ebell, whose engagement to Frank Curran, jr., was being told to friends this afternoon at the club's spring fashion show. Mrs. Crawford Nalle, center, is president of Junior Ebell this year, and has consequently been busy with preparations for the party today. Mrs. C. W. Hyde, jr., above right, has been hostess at two parties during the past two weeks and is modeling at today's fashion event. Below, left, is Mrs. Howard M. Paul, who was Miss Catherine Rousseau until her marriage last night in the First Methodist Church wedding chapel. At lower right is Miss Carol Smith, just re-elected president of Delta Chi Sigma and a busy chairman of tonight's spring sport dance of her sorority in Huntington Beach Memorial hall.

Campus Coeds Name Miss Mock

Miss Charlotte Louise Mock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mock of Santa Ana, has been elected secretary of the Women's Athletic association at the University of Southern California, it was announced at the annual banquet of the organization in Elisabeth von KleinSmid hall on the Trojan campus this week.

Miss Mock is a major in physical education and has taken an active part in coeds' intramural athletics during her two years at the university. She is a member of Delta Gamma social sorority.

Other officers of the Trojan sportswomen's society named were Cecile Hallingby, president; Elizabeth Peir, vice president; Jean Laury, treasury, and Betsy Martin, activity recorder.

JAYSEE WOMEN HOLD HOCKEY SPREAD

Holding their annual hockey spread in the form of a turkey dinner, the Women's Athletic association met in the dining room of the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday when they entertained both new and old members.

After the dinner, rotation games were played, with each game lasting for 10 minutes. At the end of an hour and 10 minutes the scores were computed and the girl with the highest score won. The award, a green all-day sucker, went to Elsie Kokx.

Marjorie Lauderbach attended as guest of honor and Mrs. Harry G. Wetherell and Miss Leck were also present.

CLUB ENJOYS EVENING BRIDGE

Members of a little bridge club gathered Wednesday evening for a dessert bridge at the home of Miss Clara Richards, on Oakmont, where they found their places marked at a pretty table centered with yellow flowers and candles.

Mrs. John Vernon won the first prize, and Mrs. F. A. Burkett, low, in the bridge games which followed, and the latter was also honored with birthday greetings.

Others present were the Mesdames Charles Rumell, Jesse Elliott, Herbert Krahling, S. A. Jones and Don Mozley, and the hostess.

The next meeting, on April 1, will be at the home of Mrs. Vernon, on Santiago street.

C. E. GROUP TUESDAY

Current Events section of Ebell will meet Tuesday at the clubhouse for a 12:30 luncheon. Mrs. R. H. Prothero, Mrs. H. B. Rapp and Mrs. Herbert Krahling are hostesses, and the latter is to be called at 570-J by those unable to attend.

WOMEN GOLFERS HAVE BREAKFAST

Women golfers of the Santa Ana Country club and guests breakfasted at the clubhouse on Thursday, later spending several hours out on the greens.

Enjoying the outing were the Mesdames Don Andrews, C. W. McClure, J. L. Bushard, Hugh Shields, Harry Bakre, J. K. McDonald, E. H. Guthier, C. V. Doty, Paul Hall, J. L. McFadden, F. C. Drumm, Jack Colburn, R. W. Weston, and C. H. Chapman, members of the group, and the Mesdames Harry Woodington and Polly Curnutt of Santa Ana, Mrs. E. C. Ketler of Huntington Beach, and Mrs. H. Harwood of Los Angeles.

MOTHERS' CLUB

The American Legion Mothers' club will meet all day Monday at Veterans' hall with a covered dish luncheon at noon.

Chat Awhile With Betty

By BETTY COX

By BETTY COX

With a necessarily short chatter column last week, there is almost too much to talk about in just one column today, what with countesses, engagements, weddings, and more and more parties on our calendar every day.

This week has been an especially busy one, with cooking school, junior college journalists, and personal attendance at several important functions, in addition to the regular routine of telephoning and writing.

* * *

Most thrilling news of the week is the surprise within a surprise that broke at the Junior Ebell fashion show and spring bridge party this afternoon. The first surprise was the pretty wedding scene which had been planned to show what spring folks will wear, but the real thrill was the dedication of the wedding episode to Nan Mead, last year's president of Junior Ebell, who was wearing Frank Curran, jr.'s, diamond ring for the first time today.

Nan wanted to wait and announce it at a party later in the spring, but Frank rushed right down and bought the ring the minute she said "Yes," and then she couldn't wait to wear it, it was so pretty . . . So the news is out, and they're going to be married some time this year.

* * *

Mrs. Bob Munro just couldn't make the fashion show today, because she was preparing to entertain 30 relatives at dinner tomorrow in honor of the first birthday of her little son, Baby Robert Arthur. Bobbie is the only grandson, the only great grandson, and the only great nephew to a lot of these relatives, and with all these distinctions a first birthday is really an event.

* * *

Tomorrow is also the first birthday of Mary West, of the Franklin West household, who was in the hospital at the same time as Robbie.

* * *

We've a new neighbor, and we like him. Skinny Skirvin moved his office location over nearer the society department this week, and the other Betty and I are enjoying this closer contact with his humor and philosophies. The other day when the jaysee journalists took over our jobs, one of them left a pencil on Skinny's desk, and Skinny put it carefully away in his drawer in the belief that they will be back again next year.

* * *

Harriette Dale thinks she missed her calling and should have been an inventor. Right now, she is positive she could make a million by inventing a spun glass iron cord. It wouldn't break, it wouldn't burn, and you could see whether or not the current was turned on just as you see the current in a neon sign. . . . Those are a few of the attributes already thought of for the advertising campaign.

* * *

Barbara Ann Brisco had a real celebration for her 14th birthday anniversary this year, after getting safely past her 13th which fell on Friday the 13th last year.

* * *

This week's cooking school was one of the jolliest we have ever attended. Lots of funny jokes were instilled into the more serious matters of learning how to cook, and everyone had a good time laughing with everyone else. Especially that 1400-throat-power laugh on Jimmie Adams on the last day.

* * *

Another anniversary celebrated this week is the 25th issue of Don Button's "Friday Afternoon" art column, with plans ahead for a list he is compiling of 100 California artists "we should know." We're looking forward to it.

* * *

For two years, Mrs. W. C. Watkins has received a birthday card from the Woman's club at the wrong time of the year, and this year discovered that they belonged to Mrs. J. D. Watkins, another of the members, who celebrates in the early spring.

* * *

The Woman's club home craft section had 13 members present again last week. Almost without exception, attendance at their meetings just reaches the 13-mark, and invariably their meetings are happy ones, defying the ill omen.

* * *

In spite of the sort of holiday the jaysee girls gave us on Thursday, when they came over and put out a grand society page for us, we feel a little fagged at the end of this week full of excitement, and leave you with this thought:

"I wisht I was a little rock,
"A-settin' on a hill,
"And not adoin' anything
"But jes' asettin' still.

"I wouldn't eat, I wouldn't sleep,
"I wouln't even wash,
"I'd jest set there a thousand years
"And rest myself, by gosh!"

PHI SIGMAS INITIATE SIX

Alpha Alpha chapter of Phi Sigma fraternity has six new members since Wednesday evening, when formal initiation followed a banquet at Daniger's tearoom.

Receiving the ritual were Paul Hewitt, Jack Woods, Lyndon Carman, Fred Pimental, Louis Tadlock and Dean Hart.

Informal initiation was held last week-end at the Valley of the Moon near Lake Arrowhead, where the chapter had reserved a large cabin, many of the members accompanying the pledges for the two days in the snow.

Committee for the initiation in the mountains was Phil Dowds and Alex Lowe and Paul Beckman was in charge of the party arrangements.

Seven Tables In Play At Party

The coral tones of quince blossoms and the soft violet of iris and pansies made a colorful background for a bridge luncheon given yesterday afternoon as the second in a series of similar courtesies by Mrs. Dexter Ball.

Seven tables were attractively spread with linen cloths, and were centered with smaller bowls carrying out the springlike tones of the vivid sprays of blossoms flanked by blue tapers in the diningroom.

Mrs. Ball, a gracious hostess in green and white formal afternoon gown, awarded dainty handkerchiefs to the holder of high score at each table of the contract which followed lunch. Prize winners were Mrs. I. F. Landis, Mrs. Howard Timmons, Mrs. Hugh Lowe, Dr. Mary E. Wright, Mrs. John Ball, Mrs. J. B. Tucker, and Mrs. Horace Stevens.

Other guests were Mrs. Wilbur Barr, Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. Hertha H. Brown, Mrs. Ray Chandler, Mrs. Lawrence Coffing, Mrs. H. T. Dunning, Mrs. Richard Emison, Mrs. Braden Finch, Mrs. Fred Forgy, Mrs. K. Hermon, Mrs. R. C. Hoiles, Mrs. Clarence Jordan, Mrs. Baxter Jouvenat, Mrs. B. B. Kellogg, Mrs. Rex Kennedy, Mrs. E. T. McFadden, Mrs. Milton McMurray, Mrs. Herbert Miller, Mrs. Sherman Stevens, Mrs. Dixson Tubbs, Mrs. J. B. Tucker, and Mrs. Z. B. West.

Mrs. Howard Timmons and Mrs. C. E. Bressler had sent the lovely blossoms and pansies from their gardens.

PAST OFFICERS HAVE LUNCHEON

Sycamore past noble grands had a very well-attended St. Patrick's meeting this week at the home of Mrs. W. A. Chandler, 301 North Garnsey street.

A dainty luncheon course at tables decorated with St. Patrick's favors and lovely freesias and ranunculi was served by Mrs. Chandler and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Fannie Rose, Mrs. Mae Curtis and Mrs. Roda Ramlose, with the assistance of Mrs. Fannie Taylor.

Mrs. Josie Shoemaker will entertain the group April 15. Guests yesterday were Mrs. Irma Fraze, Mrs. Anna Johnson, Mrs. Fern Smith, Flossie Baker, Mrs. Gertrude Pickering and Mrs. Ella Stowe.

Members present were the mesdames Emma Chandler, Theresa Dunning, Stella Henderson, Bessie McDonald, Inez Baker, Hazel Ryan, Martha Taylor, Bessie Stovall, Josie Shoemaker, Kate Rinchard, Millie West, Florence Crawford, Leola Dietrich, Catherine Clark and Pauline Decker.

Mrs. Bob Fernandez Is Hostess at Shower

Starting a rush of gay parties which friends are planning for Miss Lenora Fernandez between Easter time and her wedding next June, Mrs. Bob Fernandez of 2353 Riverside drive entertained friends from Santa Ana and other towns of Orange and Los Angeles counties today at a smart luncheon bridge and shower at the Town House in Los Angeles. The guest of honor, who is a sister of Bob Fernandez, joined her hostess in receiving the guests in the flower-decked reception hall, she and Mrs. Fernandez both wearing lovely afternoon formals with corsages sent by Miss Fernandez' fiance, Ralph Culp. The bride-to-be was in cream-colored lace, and her corsage of violets and lilies of the valley. The hostess had the same type of flowers to go with her dress of organza in a ginger shade, trimmed with lace.

The flower courtesy from Mr. Culp was also extended to his mother, Mrs. I. O. Culp, who wore a print suit, and for whom a gardenia corsage had been sent to the Town House.

For luncheon, the hostess took her guests to the beautiful Wedgewood room, where their table was set in blue and white with lovely floral arrangements. Blue Spanish iris and forget-me-nots were combined effectively with white tulips and stock in the artistic centerpiece.

After luncheon, bridge was enjoyed in the French room, it too bright with the blossoms of early spring. When the prizes were awarded at conclusion of the games, a shower of linen gifts for the bride-elect's hope chest was brought in and a delightful hour spent at the end of the day unwrapping the pretty packages and examining their contents.

Invited to this first pre-nuptial courtesy for June's bride were the Mesdames R. E. Chapman, Lawrence Bemis, John Lucien Wehrly, Dean Collver, William Fernandez, Riley Huber, Edwin Holmes, Lawrence Mitchell, Richard Ewert, Roy Langley, R. A. Tiernan, and the Misses Elizabeth Millen, Ella Klaustermeier, Mildred Vieira, Lois Sturgeon, all of Santa Ana.

Mrs. Warren Fletcher of Corona del Mar; Mrs. Winthrope Gordon, Mrs. William Wright, Mrs. E. Carlson, Mrs. J. Chaffin, Mrs. Florence Diller, Mrs. Ray Heneckeer, Mrs. Robert Redington and Mrs. Al Colby, of Los Angeles; Mrs. William Queale, Mrs. Elton McCoy, Mrs. L. O. Culp, Mrs. Esther Litchfield, and Mrs. Wendell Irwin, of Fullerton; Mrs. Hazel Hefflin of Laguna Beach; Miss Karen Cooper of Beverly Hills; Mrs. Malcolm Meacham of Pasadena; Mrs. Lura Grignon of Beverly Hills; Miss Florence Backs of Anaheim; and Mrs. James Ross of Santa Barbara.

Rites Held At Sunset Hour

Candlelight and the hour before sunset combined their beauty with the flowers of early spring late this afternoon to form a lovely setting for the wedding of Miss Hazel Irene Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Spencer of 222 East Twentieth street, Costa Mesa, and Richard D. Pinkerton, son of the Frank Pinkertons of 2138 North Main street, an old time Santa Ana family.

All of the flowers and candles in the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, which was the scene of the wedding, were in bridal white, two large baskets of blossoms silhouetted against palms in the background, and sweet peas and stocks forming candle effects at the ends of the pews. The Rev. Mr. William J. Hatter read the service.

The bride was in white satin, with a white lace jacket with long sleeves and the back extending to a train. Her veil, which fell to the hem of her dress, was caught to a tulle halo at the back of her head, and this fastened to her hair by a wreath of white flowers. For her "something old" she carried lace rose point handkerchief which belongs to the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. H. W. McCullough of Santa Ana.

The bridal tradition was further carried out by the sprays of delphinium in her bouquet, the "something blue" of the bride's verse. The rest of her bouquet was bride's roses, and clusters of lilies of the valley dropped from the shower of white ribbons.

Schoolday Chum Attends

Attending her as maid of honor was her schooldays chum, Miss Betty Hawk of Santa Ana, who wore peach organdy crepe made with a full skirt, tight bodice, puff sleeves, and a halo hat of a matching shade. Her arm bouquet was of snapdragons in tones shading from peach to rust.

Two young cousins of the bridegroom, Miss Eloise Jacobs and Miss Patricia Collins, were junior bridesmaids, the former in aquamarine organdy crepe and the latter in pale pink. Both dresses were made alike, with full skirts, fitted waists, and puff sleeves, and each of the girls carried colonial bouquets and wore little wrist handkerchiefs in their bracelets to match their dresses. Their halo hats were also in matching shades.

Gene Hall of Los Angeles, in whose wedding two months ago, today's bridegroom was best man, was Mr. Pinkerton's best man this afternoon.

The bride's brother, Albert Spencer, and a friend from Orange, DeWitt Bishop, were the ushers.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, G. F. Vaughan of San Fernando, substituting for Mr. Spencer, who has been ill for some time.

Organ Prelude

The only music was that of the organ, at which Miss Ruth Armstrong presided, playing an arrangement of wedding songs before the service and signalling the marriage hour with the Lohengrin Wedding March. For the exit of the bridal party, she played Mendelssohn's "Recessional."

A reception followed in the parish hall downstairs, where the 125 assembled guests gathered to greet the newly married couple and their attendants. The bridal party was joined by the mothers of the bride and bridegroom in receiving, Mrs. Spencer wearing a printed crepe with navy blue redingote style coat and accessories in that same shade. Her corsage was of pink camellias. Mrs. Pinkerton was in brown with brown mink cape and matching accessories.

Two close friends of the bride, Mrs. Raymond Todd (Dora Tedford) and Mrs. Gordon McHatton (Iona DeRemer), assisted at the pretty white table at which the new Mrs. Pinkerton cut the first slice of the wedding cake.

The couple planned to leave this evening for a honeymoon trip to San Francisco and the Bay region, the bride changing to a suit of grey worsted with navy blue satin blouse, navy blue accessories, and a grey caracul coat. She wore a corsage of flowers from her bridal bouquet.

On their return, they will be at home in Balboa, where the bride's family made their home for several years and where the Pinkertons have also spent some time.

Both of the young people are graduates of Santa Ana High school and Junior college, Mr. Pinkerton later finishing at the University of California where he studied engineering and was affiliated with Chi Epsilon, national honorary fraternity for engineers. He is now with the Orange county flood control office.

Mrs. Pinkerton was a member of the Sisterhood of Spinsters on the jaysee campus, her maid of honor and the two who assisted at the reception being sisters in the same organization.

TEACHERS ARE BOARD GUESTS

Teachers of McKinley school were entertained by the executive board at dinner one night this week at the home of Mrs. Norman Franklin on South Birch street.

Green and white were the appropriate colors combined in the table appointments, and the St. Patrick theme prevailed also in the tallies and score pads provided for court whist. The prizes went to Miss Emma Hasty and Miss Mary Andrews.

Executive board members present were the Mesdames Herbert Hildebrand, Floyd Mitchell, John State, Sheldon Russell, Alfred Knight, Albert Garthe, Norman Franklin, R. N. Bullock, J. A. Gajeski, Dale Elliott, Cecil Carlson, Roy Kelchner, Paul Webb and Elmer Christensen, and the teachers were the Misses Clarice Marx, Emma Hasty, Gertrude Potts, Marjorie Ann Mathes, Katherine Chapman, Beryl Hatch, and Mary Andrews, Mrs. A. J. Stark, Mrs. Henry Vaughn, and Mrs. Donna Ward.

NORTHEAST AID HAS MEETING

Mrs. V. V. Tubbs of Tustin avenue was hostess this week to the northeast section of the First Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, with Mrs. Frank Leonard, the leader, presiding at a business session.

Mrs. Frank Jones conducted devotionals, using the Easter story as her theme, and during the social hour Mrs. Guy Christian gave two humorous readings appropriate to St. Patrick's day.

The losers in the year's calling contest invited the losers to a luncheon that will take the place of the April meeting, to be given at the home of Mrs. J. L. McBride.

A tray course decorated in Irish colors was served by the hostess committee, Mrs. George Lewis, Mrs. J. E. Arterburn, Mrs. Cora Rugg, Mrs. Guy Christian and Miss Mary Craig.

WILLARD P.-T. A.

Willard Parent-Teacher association will meet later than usual this month, changing its meeting date from March 23 to March 30, on account of spring vacation. The meeting will be held at 3 p. m. in the school library.

CRUCIFIXION DRAMA ON RADIO

Sunday Players Present Classic Tomorrow at 1 P. M. on KVOE

"Pilate said unto them: 'Shall I crucify your King?'

"The chief priests answered: 'We have no king but Caesar.'

"Then delivered he Him therefore unto them to be crucified, and they took Jesus and led Him away."

The drama of dramas, "The Crucifixion," will be presented by the Sunday Players during their third broadcast from KVOE tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock.

These immortal stories from the Book of Books, scheduled each Sunday at the same hour on KVOE, have established a large audience with only two broadcasts.

Concerts on Air Tomorrow

The program of "String Rhapsodies" which features Frederick Stark's All-String orchestra and Paul Keast, baritone, will highlight another of the North Indian Tribal Melodies and Schumann's "Traumerei," tomorrow afternoon.

The 30-minute concert will be broadcast by KVOE and other stations of the Mutual-Don Lee Broadcasting system from 12:15 to 12:45.

One of the highlights of Claude Sweeten's "Salon Moderne," a half hour of music for moderns, played in the modern manner, will be the playing of a well known work by his friend and contemporary, Meredith Willson. It is "Thoughts While Strolling," from the "O. O. McIntyre Suite," and will be a feature of the program, broadcast from KVOE and other Mutual-Don Lee stations from 6 to 6:30 tomorrow night.

A. A. U. Hoop Games Broadcast

The final game of the A. A. U. basketball tournament being played in Denver, Colo., in which 40 top-notch club, college and industrial teams were entered, will be brought to the nationwide audience of the coast-to-coast Mutual network tonight.

Play-by-play description of the championship game will be broadcast from 8:30 to 9 o'clock from KVOE and other stations of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

More Treasure Stories Tomorrow

Taking the listeners on a mythical tour to the land of fantastic dreams, where everyone is a multi-millionaire, "True Tales of Buried Treasure" will re-enact another thrilling tale of the search for hidden treasures when it is broadcast from KVOE and other Mutual-Don Lee stations tomorrow night, from 8:15 to 8:45.

'Moods, Melody' Begins Tomorrow

Resuming the role which so endeared her to numerous radio friends a few years ago, Professor Charles Frederick Lindsley will be presented in the new "Moods and Melody" series which is to be inaugurated on KVOE and other stations of the Mutual-Don Lee Broadcasting system from 6:30 to 7 o'clock tomorrow night.

Your Palm Hints Of Fate That's in Store

Do you wonder if fun or trouble is ahead? Lines in your palm, the mount at the base of each finger, give you clues.

Does your Fate Line run straight to the Mount of Saturn? You ride to success without a tumble. But if Fate ends on the Heart Line, disappointment in love is written in your book.

To know character traits important to your fate, read the mounts in your palm. Is Jupiter prominent, the first finger long? You're a born leader. If the mount's very large, you like to ride roughshod. Gentler ways keep friends.

A normal Mount of Venus says you're sweet, affectionate; a large one, "Fie! You love pleasure, flirtations."

Know about the chains, little lines, stars—to get all the story. Our 32-page booklet shows you how to read palms easily, entertain at parties.

KNIGHT VARIES HIS PROGRAM

Ray Knight is a comedian, but more. He is just as fond of doing "character" work as comedy. And, lately on the "1937 Radio Show" with Arnold Johnson, et al, heard on KVOE and other stations in the nationwide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, Sundays, from 3 to 3:30 p. m., Ray has been going in for character sketches.

REALTORS HEAR CROP OUTLOOK

All things being equal, Orange county citrus growers will realize from 100 to 115 per cent of the sum they realized last year from the current crop.

Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs told this to members of the Santa Ana Realty board yesterday in analyzing crop futures in this county. He also outlined standardization work of the commissioner's office, stating that many modern methods date to the county's three major freezes, in 1913, 1922, and 1937, when need for standardization was most felt.

His men, he said, made 19,000 inspections during the past year, at an average cost of 38 cents each.

The board adopted a resolution approving the work of the commissioner's office in maintenance of Orange county crop standards.

Modulations From KVOE

BENAY VENUTA

Benay Venuta's hour becomes just that, once again, with the program headlining the popular dynamic blonde returning to a 60-minute status with the broadcast over KVOE and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 5 to 6 o'clock this evening.

CHINESE NATIONALISM

Gordon Enders, the only occidental representative and foreign advisor of the Pauchen Lama of Tibet who has spent much of his life in that strange country will tell what he thinks of "Chiang Kai-shek and Chinese Nationalism" in a discussion with William M. MARIAN MARTIN FROCK AND JACKET WILL PROVE A DOUBLE ASSET!

PATTERN 9112

If your budget refuses to "budge" in the matter of extensive wardrobe replenishment this spring, insist at least on a frock with matching jacket, and be sure to make up Pattern 9112, for it will repay you with its chic, flattery and countless wearings! Admirably styled to give the average-sized matron slenderness, it's also a boon to the size 46, who will realize a world of gracious flattery in its height-giving lines. A glance at the frock itself tells you sleeves and yoke are cut in one, for simplicity. Other parts of frock and jacket are equally simple to cut and fit together. Make it up in triple sheer, a soft flat crepe or printed silk, and you'll have the added joy of wearing the jacket with other frocks. Complete Diagrammed Marion Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9112 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 6⅛ yards 39-inch fabric.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Be best dressed in town! Send for our Spring Marian Martin Pattern Book and see its eye-catching collection of easy-to-make clothes! Styles that stand out in a crowd and have that made-just-for-You look. Becoming outfits for every age—every type—every occasion. Gay frocks, blouses, suits, fabric tips! Learn how to have up-to-minute clothes this season. Book 15 cents. Pattern 15 cents. Twenty-five cents for both when ordered together.

Send your order to Santa Ana Journal, Pattern Department, 117 East Fifth street.

Men Should Be Outcast Who Discuss Women In An Offensive Fashion

By MARY STODDARD

Most men have a little boy makeup. That is, they are shy, awkward, affectionate, and usually inclined to a sort of braggadocio, particularly around some whom they hope to impress. This can be an endearing characteristic, or it can be most distasteful. If it becomes really bragging and loudmouthed it is obnoxious, and if it becomes too revealing, it is the worst of all—a male gossip. Men who "talk about" women are not gentlemen, and there is no reason for you to suppose that some day, you may not be just one more of his memoirs.

In this case, I think perhaps the wirter should just puncture his ego by refusing to see the man for a time. When and if he asks for an explanaton, tell him the plain truth.

Here is the letter: I have a problem which has been bothering me for a long time and would like to know whether other girls have similar experiences and how they feel about it.

Nearly every time my man friend and I are together he invariably brings up the subject of his past and goes into extreme detail about each girl. I have always felt that most men have pasts, but why tell us about it? It takes the romance and glamour out of life. I am in my early thirties, so perhaps he thinks I should be broad-minded about it. He has some very good qualities, but this habit of his makes me feel unhappy. MISS ANON.

EASTER WEEK RITES ARE PLANNED

Season Will Be Ushered in by Celebration of Palm Sunday

Easter Week, or Holy Week, will be ushered in as the final period of Lent in all Christian churches, with the celebration of Palm Sunday tomorrow.

Special services will be held in nearly all local churches in commemoration of the sacred time that was climaxed first by Good Friday and then by Easter Sunday hundreds of years ago.

Crucifixion

In the First Presbyterian church of Santa Ana, a candle-light communior service will be held at 7:30 p. m. on Good Friday. At this time the magnificent cantata of Sir John Stainer, "Crucifixion," will be presented.

The Rev. C. M. Aker of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church will conduct a pre-Easter service every night during the coming week except Saturday, and will preach himself each night except Tuesday, at which time the Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, will preside. Community services will be held Thursday evening.

Both St. Peter's and Trinity Lutheran churches will celebrate Thursday as "Maundy Thursday," the former with a final Lenten devotional hour at 7:30 p. m., closing with Holy Communion, and the latter with a Holy Communion service also at 7:30 p. m. St. Peter's Good Friday services will be at 9 a. m., while Trinity's will be at 7:30 p. m.

The Episcopal Church of the Messiah will have daily services, with Community at 10 a. m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and at 8 p. m. on Thursday. "The Three Hours" will be commemorated from noon to 3 p. m. on Good Friday.

Talks on Mystery Of Mother Church

"Why are so many people afraid to go to church, or ashamed to go?" queried the Rev. Julia N. Budlong of the Unitarian church today in reference to her sermon topic for tomorrow at 11 a. m.

She will preach on "The Mystery of the Mother Church," and will go into the reasons for church formation, why they are supported, and what sub-conscious forces are at work in them.

It will be the third of a sereis of four sermons based on the work on religion's mystery by Dr. Everett Dean Martin, "The Mystery of Religion."

THORNE IN THE FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE

The Trial and Crucifixion of Jesus

For the past couple weeks we have been looking in on the Upper room scene, with last week's that of Jesus praying for His diciples. Following this, Jesus with His disciples (except Judas) went out to the Garden of Gethsemane on the Mount of Olives, where Jesus went a little farther on alone, and prayed. Judas had gone to the Jewish officers according to his agreement of betrayal, and was now leading a band of men to the garden to arrest Jesus, and arrived just as he finished his prayer. He arose and surrendered Himself willingly to them and they led Him away to trial.

Jesus was brought before Annas, then Caiaphas and was condemned—which was confirmed by the San Hedrin. But they were not permitted to pass a death sentence, so they must have Him sent to the Cross by a Roman court. Eventually the case reached Pilate, where he find our lesson today, as recorded in John 18:1-19:42.

* * *

So we find Jesus before Pilate, who sought to evade the trial. Some have accused him of being a clever politician. But after all, he did just what the majority of men do today. They endeavor to evade a decision concerning Christ. In his own mind Pilate was convinced that there was no just case against Jesus, but he did not have the courage to take his stand, as he returns to the crowd and merely proposes that he release Jesus—it being the custom to have a prisoner released at the Passover time.

The crowd, however, was only angered, and cried out for the release of Barabbas, a robber. And that same crowd today is still crying "Give us Barabbas the robber. Away with Jesus and His teachings! Give us instead Barabbasian temporalities! Robbers of character, health, morals, happiness here and hereafter! Let us eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die!"

Yes, that is the sad part of it all. Tomorrow they will come up to the cold icy waters of death, but without the Christ—the only One who has ever crossed the river of death and returned—the only One who knows the way. Yes, without Christ, for yesterday, or yesteryear, they chose Barabbas!

The soldiers now place a crown of thorns on His head and a robe upon Him and mock Him as the King of the Jews. Pilate, still finding no ground for the sentence, goes forth again, this time with Jesus, but still does not have the courage of his convictions, or the manhood to pass the sentence of freeing Him. He merely saying, "I find no fault in Him. . . . Behold the man."

This scene of Jesus in mock kingly array stirred the crowd into a mad rage so that they cried out, "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!" and say that Pilate who has power should sentence Him to death because "He made Himself the Son of God." Learning of this profession, Pilate became afraid and would like to have released Him. But the Jews now suggested that Pilate was not the friend of Caesar if he let Jesus (who professed to be a King) to go free. Pilate was dependent upon Caesar for His position, and wouldn't have any suggestion of disloyalty made, though he again says, "Behold your King" which was to no avail and the crowd cries out "Away with Him, crucify Him." Pilate turns away from his better judgment and his conscience and gives the sentence of crucifixion!

* * *

The trial ended, He was led away, bearing His own cross, fainting beneath the load, to Golgotha where He was crucified between two thieves. Was it the weight of the wooden cross that caused Him to faint? I think not. It was what it represented.

On His cross, Pilate had written in three languages "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews." This was offensive to the Jews and they asked that it be changed, though Pilate refused their request.

The soldiers who crucified Him now cast lots for his garments, fulfilling the prophecy of Psalms 22:18, "They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture." By the way, verses 16-17 say ". . . they pierced my hands and feet . . . they look and stare upon me." I wonder how many prophecies were fulfilled that last 24 hours? "Not a bone was broken," among others. The last prophecy concerning this scene was that of Psalm 69:21 ". . . and in my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink." Following this, Jesus said "It is finished."

* * *

Such a brief story of John's picture of the trial and crucifixion of Jesus. We have seen Him carrving His cross, who a few months before had said (Matthew 16:24) "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me."

Was the cross we have seen today, upon which he died—was it His on His account? Was He guilty of any crime to bring such a sentence? No! It was we who committed the crime and were guilty. He was answering a sentence against us for which we should have died—that we might live. It was our cross that He died upon!

Today we have three choices before us: We are in Pilate's place without the courage to take our stand; or we are out in the crowd crying "Away with Him! Give us Barabbas;" or we go with Christ to the cross, (accept His substitution) and as Paul said "Be crucified with Christ." This will mean death to the old life, but Paul continues "nevertheless I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me. . . ."

No man who ever comes in touch with Jesus is ever the same afterward. The touch of Jesus either purifies or burns. The life read of every man turns right or left at Jesus Christ. Each decides his own case when he decides for or against Him. When Pilate asked, "What shall I do with Jesus?" he was really asking what he would do with himself. Historians tell us that shortly afterward, Pilate was stripped of his office on the very charges he had tried by compromise to avoid, later dying by his own hand.

Judas really sold himself when he thought he was selling Jesus, and killed himself before the sacrifice of the Savior was finished. The Jews said they had no king but Caesar, and Caesar after Caesar oppressed and plundered them until at last when they rose in revolt against the very Caesar they had claimed, he desecrated and destroyed their temple and city.

In conclusion, I wonder if there is any comparison to Genesis 22: 13? Isaac was under the sentence of death and was at the place of execution. Everything was ready. He was bound, and Abraham had the knife raised and was about to strike when God intervened and showed Abraham a ram caught in the bushes "in the stead of Isaac."

We were under the sentence of death, but Jesus intervened and became the lamb of God and as we have seen in today's picture was offered in our stead. Shall we accept His substitution?

Next week, from the lips of thousands of persons gathered to worship and pay homage to the Risen Lord, will rise that beautiful song "He Arose."

But there's another grand old hymn which seems appropriate this week:

NO CROSS, NO CROWN!
Must Jesus bear the cross alone
And all the world go free?
No, there's a cross of everyone
And there's a cross for me.

The consecrated cross I'll bear
Till death shall set me free,
And then go home, my crown to wear
For there's a crown for me.

METHODISTS TO PRSENT ORATORIO

The First Methodist church choir, under the direction of Halstead McCormac, will open the Easter season's music with a rendition of Sir John Stainer's oratorio "The Crucifixion" tomorrow, Palm Sunday afternoon at a 5:30 vesper service. The church has been beautifully decorated with palms for the occasion and a large congregation is expected to attend. An inspirational service is in store for all music lovers.

"The Crucifixion" is variously referred to as an oratorio and as a cantata; because of the brevity of the work, the term "cantata" is probably the more accurate. Sir John, himself, modestly gave it the sub-title, "A Meditation on the Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer."

Soloists who will assist in this performance are Wallace Le Gras and Donald Krueger, who will share the leading baritone solos; Marquise Hare and Gustav Koehler, well known local tenors, and H. F. Kenny and C. L. Anderson, who will sing incidental bass solos. Christine Lambert, organist of the church, will accompany.

The public is invited to celebrate Palm Sunday by attending this work of Stainer's. Another musical vesper will be heard on Easter Sunday afternoon at 5:30. On the occasion the choir will be assisted by the Cecilian Singers and the choir of the junior church, the latter under the direction of Miss Leonora Tompkins, in addition to a double quartet of soloists.

Palm Sunday morning at the 9:30 hour the church will be hosts to the De Molay. Dr. George A. Warmer will preach from the subject, "The Victorious Christ."

New York Stocks

NEW YORK. (AP)—Stocks shifted from one foot to the other in today's market and, except for a few steels, rails and specialties, made little or no progress.

In addition to nervousness over the labor outlook, another break in U. S. government securities tended to keep many traders in the safety zones.

Dealings were slow from the start. Prices follow:

Week's Citrus Review

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—California oranges and lemons were steady during the past week in Eastern and Middle Western auction centers. Oranges strengthened while lemons weakened during the week.

The navel orange auction market average for the week was $3.91, one cent more than a week ago. Volume jumped sharply, moving ahead 65 cars to a total of 325.

Lemons were steady at an average price per box in the auctions of $5.29, three cents lower than the average of the preceding week. Volume increased 10 cars to 114.

Florida valencias are being well received in the auctions, with prices favorable. Florida grapefruit was about steady, although strong in spots.

Howard Thompson, AAA representative, said Florida's prorate for next week was 1200 cars of valencias and 500 cars of grapefruit. The tangerine season is ended.

"The AAA marketing agreement for Texas on oranges and grapefruit has been tentatively approved by the secretary of agriculture, and growers and shippers are expected to begin voting immediately," Thompson reported.

"A temporary injunction forbidding further violation of the provisions of the AAA citrus marketing agreement was obtained in federal court during the week against the citrus packing company of Redlands and a restraining order was also given against the Sunshine Fruit distributors of Long Beach. The Latter was carried over to June 8 for hearing."

W. C. Frackelton, general manager for the California-Arizona Orange and Grapefruit Marketing agency, announced next week's prorate at 950 cars of navel oranges in interstate commerce and 175 in intrastate commerce, all from Southern California.

The federal government had bought approximately 400,000 cases of canned grapefruit juice and 1500 cars of fresh grapefruit for relief purposes in Texas up to March 21, officials stated today.

Pacific coast citrus markets were steady during the week with demand moderate to fair, the Federal-State Market News service reported today.

The California Fruit Growers exchange, reporting on both private and auction sales markets, says:

"The navel orange market opened steady and closed higher, especially on medium to small sizes during the week.

"The lemon market is doing better on the larger sizes with a slightly easier tendency on the smaller sizes. Demand is good and volume of sales this week will probably be a little heavier than a week ago."

Orange averages per box for the week, with compartive figures for last week and the corresponding weeks of 1936 and 1935 follow:

Music and $8000 a Month

IT'S HIGH time that somebody in this town besides the WPA and the musicians themselves awakes to the value of the Federal Music project here. The project brings $8000 a month in government paychecks to Santa Ana.

Although the 100-piece orchestra is composed of professional musicians, under the direction of Leon Eckles, and turns out as good symphony as can be heard in the Southland, the public has shown scant interest and concerts are poorly attended.

Unless more appreciation is in evidence soon, there is a possibility that Los Angeles officials who are angling for the $96,000-a-year appropriation will take it away from Santa Ana on the grounds that the people here don't appreciate good music enough to go to the concerts.

If you enjoy the music of the old and modern masters you'll get a real treat by attending the next Federal Music project concert and you'll help prove at the same time that Santa Ana does deserve to keep the orchestra.

A New Jersey man drinks champagne for the hiccups. Sounds like a vicious circle.

Neglect of the Soil

IN PERIODS of heavy rain it becomes vividly clear how our careless cultivation of slopes and hillsides has upset the natural balance of runoff and ground cover in Orange county. Drive out along rural roads tomorrow and note the erosion for yourself.

This has happened before in other parts of the world, too.

St. Paul preached in the city of Antioch, where 400,000 dwelled. Today Antioch is a wretched Syrian city of 30,000. It perished from erosion of the back country by the Lebanon and Taurus rivers.

The North African coast was once a noted wine region. Now the desert creeps in.

Great rivers—the Tigris, Nile, Euphrates, Danube and Volga—have long kept man alive. But if drainage laws are forgotten or neglected, civilizations fail, floods roar, silt overruns, crops fail and drouth spreads.

This great continent of North America is no exception. She has been generous; but if we neglect her soil, she will exact a terrible penalty.

It's safer to be a Republican in Washington than a Trotskyite in Moscow.

Let's Stay Out of It

WHEN smallpox breaks out, the health department isolates the victim lest the entire community become infected by the plague. That's good logic and the almost complete eradication of smallpox proves that it works.

Why shouldn't the world treat war like civilized communities treat smallpox? Why not isolate it?

The U. S. A. can't speak for the rest of the world, of course. But it can start the ball rolling for itself by severing business relations with all nations at war. For where the pocketbook is, the heart is also, as past history proves.

One step in this direction is the McReynolds bill which is designed to keep America out of war by restricting trade with foreign nations.

This bill—which apparently has the favor of both houses of congress—might cost some of our big business men a little profit. On the other hand, it might save the lives of a lot of fine American boys. Every citizen who wants this nation to remain at peace should support it.

Famous last words: "I'll never bet on that horse again, or will I?"

The Movies and Crime

ALTHOUGH the movies often are blamed by zealous reformers for the stress laid on crime, we've yet to see a picture where the villain did not meet some dire penalty for misdeeds.

So little Johnnie and Mary really aren't quite so likely to be lured into a life of vice by the movies as it sometimes has been claimed.

Especially pointed is the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer series of shorts on "Crime Does Not Pay." These films—one of them is now running at the Broadway (no charge for advertising, Mr. Fountain)—show how difficult it is even for the clever criminal to escape the dragnet of modern scientific criminology.

Any film that graphically illustrates the folly of crime is a strong moral lesson for every child who sees it.

These new spring hats appear to be qualified for a place of honor in a surrealist exhibition.

Ability to Relax

THE PRESIDENT is at Warm Springs, Ga., for a vacation. His splendid health, his victory over an affliction, can largely be accounted for by his ability to relax.

No man in the world has more abundant energy than Roosevelt; yet he can turn that force off and on like a light switch, wisely realizing that in complete rest he can constantly renew his energy.

A wise habit; one of the most destructive forces in anyone's nature is an inability to relax and put work to one side, when the occasion and opportunity arises.

"I've done my part in my supreme court fight; I'm not going to worry about what you fellows finally do," is, in effect, what Roosevelt tells congress as he slips into the warm and soothing waters of his favorite pool.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

Another knick-knack day. A sorting of accumulated odds and ends with the hope there will be enough to brim the column. It's like grandma's rag bag, out of which she picked a fancy for the back of the willow rocker or the bureau top in the visitor's room.

It is pleasant to sit by the fire, dream by the embers and set down one's thoughts. Outside the raging scuff of storm. Inside, save for the cheerful crackle of flames, the calm of rainbow.

No one seems to have noticed in commenting on the passing of the long ill Irene Fenwick some time ago that she and Lionel Barrimore, her husband, appeared in a play called "The Claw" just prior to their marriage. A play in which an older man married a chit of a girl who betrayed and ruined his life.

The moral, a tragic one, was against the matter of youth and age. The disparity existed between Barrimore and his bride and more than one wondered if the tragedy would succeed in real life. It did not, but on the one ideal marriage of the Barrymore dynasty.

* * *

Miss Fenwick's passing brought faint adumbration of one who really seemed, along with Diamond Jim Brady, to have taken Broadway in stride. I refer to Felix Isman, a fabulous figure of 20 years ago. If I'm not mistaken he preceded Barrymore as Miss Fenwick's husband. While always referred to as a Philadelphian, his recorded exploits were mostly of that amorphic zone going under the generic name of "Broadway." He was in real estate, and for a time dominated every whopping deal in that realty and theatrical area. He was also a genius of the sporting world, who in daring emergency could, like Arnold Rothstein, write his check for a million. One wonders what became of him. Is he dead literally or only figuratively?

In almost every block is a strike. In front of a cafeteria near the Trans Lux last evening pickets were parading with oil cloth signs fore and aft. A well cock-tailed proletarian in a passing taxi stuck his head out to proclaim: "It will never get well, if you pick it."

Most men these days confine their whistling to the shower. Very few any more do like the poet's lad, who "whistled as he went for want of thought." I was thinking during a whistling bravura this morning of Harold McCormick when he was angeling Chicago opera. As the story goes, he had an assistant conductor attend at his mansion each day, playing a few favorite arias while the master whistled. At the finish the musician would be rewarded with a sizable bill. True or not, it always struck me as one of the highs in luxury.

Whistling reminds me I had a a Christmas card from Carol McComas, my favorite whistler in vaudeville days and who later became a dramatic star. She is married now—I've misplaced the card and cannot report her nuptial name—and living in far off Shanghai. Ladies who could whistle fascinated me. In a walk in London's Hyde Park one morning a dowager type was taking her constitutional with a pair of collies. A bird scudding the ground caught their fancy and they bounded off. Her calls were in vain, and finally she let go a shrieking whistle through her teeth that must have stirred the immortals in Westminster Abbey. I never before or since heard a woman past 50 whistle. Save perhaps a few faint tweets through the upper plate.

Billy Seeman, of whom I am extremely fond, and I once, through mutual absurdity, had an interlude of bowing icily enpassant. Seeman's brother-in-law, Rube Coldberg, kidded us out of it at a dinner one night, and that will be forever that. I was reminded of this a few days ago when a friend was in my workshop as a former friend to whom he had not spoken for eight years was announced. The friend in the room was for taking flight. I persuaded him to stick. He met his old crony with cordial handshake. Then they sat down and had a mutual little cry and, being a fool to oblige I got out my crying towel and chucked in a tear or so! And somehow it was perfectly grand. Not many emotions top cementing over an old friendship that has cracked. Life is too brief for lasting quarrels.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's note: Harlan Fiske Stone, associate justice of the United States supreme court, gets his free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round today, by virtue of the brass ring hereby tendered him by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen.)

WASHINGTON.—If and when President Roosevelt appoints his six young men to the supreme court, the new chief justice of that reorganized institution will be the man who has watched the present jujdiciary battle with more than a twinkle of amusement in his eye—Justice Harlan Fiske Stone.

Justice Stone is 64 years old, a life-long Republican, but he gave the President his best ammunition against the court in the AAA dissent, and perhaps most important of all, avoids the cloistered and sometimes musty vacuum in which so many supreme court justices become fossilized.

In fact, Justice Stone almost seems to fear the isolation which grips a supreme court justice. He works at the job of counteracting this—works at it hard. He goes out of his way to seek social contacts, dines out three or four nights a week, entertains frequently at home, seldom misses a Sunday symphony concert, and is not at all squeamish over jokes aimed against the dignity of himself or his colleagues. He seems to enjoy them.

Once a friend invited him to a cocktail party, called up later to tell him in advance that John L. Lewis also was invited, giving Justice Stone the opportunity to back out. Justice Stone replied:

"I don't care who's going to be there. I'm a free agent and I have a right to come and go as I wish."

Not only did Stone attend the party; but he mingled freely with such liberal thinkers as Senator Norris and Charles Beard, the historian, discussing with them such sacred subjects as the constitution and the court.

* * *

OUTDOOR PLAN

Justice Stone has all the appearances of the successful American business man, heavy-set, bluff, hearty, well-dressed. There is nothing scholarly or stuffy about him. As a youth he was expelled from an agricultural college because of his two-fisted exuberance during a hazing fracas, later became a star football player at Amherst. As a senior he conceived the idea of stealing Sabrina, the goddess of Amherst men, away from the alumni and secreting her in the barn of his future father-in-law. And today there is still a lot of mischief in the heart of Harlan Stone.

When he built his home in Washington, he designed a secret door between his study and the dining-room, hidden by a bookcase which swings aside at the push of a concealed button.

When he arose on frosty winter mornings to join the Hoover medicine ball cabinet, it was not merely for the sake of hob-nobbing with the President of the United States, but because Stone really loves to exercise.

Also, having warned his colleagues in scalding words that "for the removal of unwise laws from the statute books, appeal lies not to the courts but to the ballot," it is not unnatural that Stone should watch the present squirming of his colleagues with a feeling of intense amusement.

* * *

BELOVED TEACHER

Few college professors have been more loved by their students than Justice Stone. As dean of the Columbia Law school he got to know hundreds of youngsters, many of them now prominent attorneys. They all swear by him.

One of these is Congressman Lister Hill of Alabama, who says that in 1916, after leaving Columbia, he wrote to Stone asking for an autographed photograph. Time passed and no photo came.

Finally, in 1924, after Stone became attorney general under Coolidge, Hill went to see him. Stone looked at him sharply and said: "By the way, Lister, did you ever get that photograph?"

Hill had forgotten all about it. Next day it arrived by special messenger.

* * *

SPIKED MELLON

As attorney general, Stone was the bane and the terror of the Coolidge administration. Once when one of Mabel Walker Willebrandt's prohibition agents raided a Mellon distillery near Pittsburgh, Andy brought pressure to have her dismissed.

Stone not only rebuffed his cabinet colleague, but went further. He recommended prosecution of Mellons' aluminum company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

That was the petard that hoisted Stone onto the supreme court. Coolidge had got hold of something hotter than he wanted to handle.

* * *

STAUNCH REPUBLICAN

Roosevelt's present plans to make Stone chief justice are based upon the belief that Chief Justice Hughes will almost certainly resign if congress approves the enlargement of the court. Hughes will be 75 in April, previously had expressed his doubt whether a justice should remain on the court beyond that age.

Roosevelt has intimated to his advisers that it would be good strategy to have a Republican as chief justice. For, despite his vigorous pro-New Deal dissents, Stone retains his Republican moorings, and probably would have voted for Landon had he been able to vote.

Furthermore, he by no means approves of all the New Deal is doing. One of his friends quotes him as having said during a private court debate: "If these fools want to put this stuff across, it's not the business of the supreme court to stop them."

Probably Roosevelt figures that Stone's philosophy on the bench is that which Justice Holmes once expressed to Stone himself.

"My boy," he said (Stone was then 61), "about 75 years ago I learned that I was not God. And so, when the people of the various states want to do something, and I can't find anything in the constitution expressly forbidding them to do it, I say, whether I like it or not, 'Goddam it, let 'em do it.'"

One Man's Opinion

By X REPORTER

PURPLE ELEPHANTS

Surrealism, which is a rarebit fiend's dream rendered permanent through the medium of paint and canvas, has been mentioned in this column before.

And now, it seems, a certain type of locoed musician has invaded the same field, and has expressed himself, somehow, in the terms of musical notes.

The most recent surrealistic painting to come to my notice was of a young lady who had only one shoulder, had a billiard cue balanced on one eyelid, was juggling several Egyptian pyramids, and was walking with feet that were a wagon train and a camel.

A reporter on the Portland News-Telegram, probably having seen the same alleged picture, was moved to comment:

". . . If a surrealist was to sit down and write an inspired dissertion on the President's supreme court proposal, it would probably go something like this:

"Peanut butter, at variance with the voluminous, dithers and delves promiscuously in slithering selflessness. Whereas, the hoydenish pimpernel exacts litigation inasmuch. Socko.

"The sun pitty-pats, therefore beforehand in tottering split infinitives leaning thereto. Whyso? Unseemly rutabagas stretch forever and how."

The reporter's editor printed the piece for him, but even appreciating the takeoff on the surrealists, felt it necessary to append an editor's note, saying that "Reporter Fagan has been slightly 'tetched.' He isn't usually this way."

Now here's a threat and a promise:

If the painters insist upon puting their bad dreams on canvas to frighten little children and to make the average man wonder if he's suddenly gone crazy, I'm going to ask every newspaper reporter and art critic I know to go and see their insane paintings and describe them in the vein adopted by Reporter Fagan.

If surrealism is a joke, it's gone far enough.

Lewis Carroll in "Thru the Looking-Glass" probably was writing a prophetic piece about the crimes of surrealists yet unborn, when he penned these profound words:

"'Twas brillig, and the slithy toves
Did gyre and gimble in the wabe:
All mimsy were the borogroves,
All the mome raths outgrabe."

And I second the motion.

Please cooperate by observing these rules. Thanks.—Editor.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

To the Editor: This is a machine age, an age of speed, and it has also become an age of accidents, and a time of numerous injuries and accidental deaths. Where there is an effect there is a cause, and causes always precede results. Simple, is it not?

There is so much impatient hurrying that traffic rules are often ignored. If everyone would obey all traffic rules and still add all other things that would contribute to safety, would there be one accident?

Accidents on the road destroying life and property is not a necessary evil, as no evil is at all necessary, but always unnecessary.

One of the major causes of smashups is the drinking of intoxicants; but is it now lawful to drink? It is lawful to sell liquor and it is lawful to manufacture such. If it is lawful in one point, why is it not lawful in all points?

Then the question may arise: "Who is responsible?" The manufacturers well know the results, the sellers well know the results and those who drive cars certainly know the records, and even we voters who gave our consent and made it lawful know what the results are. Well, how can we excuse ourselves?

While we do not want to see accidents, we are responsible in some way unless we have opposed this destructive traffic. We may offer excuses, but will they stand a thorough test?

I believe most all of us would advise anyone not to drink intoxicants while driving a car, anyway the car we are riding in. Yet how we are from doing this thing, according to the daily records.

If each of us would have the right regard for others, "live and let live,"it would not only help others but would also be our own protection.

Well, I've finally recovered from the journalistic shock imposed by John McCoy's college boys, and Bob Swanson's contribution to this department. If Bob is still alive no harm resulted from the experience. It was a lively and alert group of lads and lassies who had charge of The Journal last Thursday. I am sure it was a relief to readers of this column to be served a meal prepared by some other editorial chef. I enjoyed the vacation, and I am sure the readers enjoyed Bob's interesting column. I wouldn't want to discourage Bob, but before he takes the leap I want to tell him that a columnist never made but one mistake—and that was when he started to write one. Well, this typewriter is available on brief notice.

"Us kids" are either going to the circus next Monday, or want to go. Nothing thrills the heart of the youngster so overwhelmingly as a circus. Course we are becoming more accustomed to animal life and the elephant doesn't agitate the spinal column like it used to, but the glamor and panoply of the circus starts a yearning that must be satisfied, even if it doesn't get any farther than watching the unloading. There is one thing that has disappeared from circus exhibitions. It's the speiler who preceded the street parade and warned the people to look out for their horses, the elephant is coming. They still have the calliope.

Another honest man from Iowa. Mr. Moore, Iowa City resident spending the winter in California, picks up a check intended for a local resident but carelessly lost. There are lots of honest people in the world, and all of those involved in this incident trade on the New York Stock Exchange.

Just an opinion: Why didn't the city aldermen appoint one woman as a member of the traffic safety council? It would have been an adornment as well as a recognition. My observation has been that there is a considerable percentage of ladies driving cars, and many of them can keep a secret as well as the opposite sex. Who knows but what the blonde might have been willing to serve.

Here's a case where the police busted up a used car sale. Two of the boys from below the border called at a used car lot to buy a car. The proprietor was not available at the time, but suggested that they take a car out and try it. They returned the car, but all the proprietor found of his prospects was a hat. When he inquired of the employes what had become of the Mexican boys he was advised they had developed a quarrel between themselves, one of them drew a knife, which started a foot race, in which the police participated, and won, but it spoiled a sale.
